Constitution Cameramen Give Unique Picture Story of Atlanta's and Bobby's Greatest Day

Photos by Kenneth Rogers, J. T. Holloway and George Cornett, staff photographers.

Upward of 125,000 people lined Peachtree, Whitehall and Mitchell streets Monday to welcome home Bobby Jones, Atlanta's thrice crowned emperor of golfdom. Here are just a few views of Bobby's triumphant procession and the record-breaking crowds which viewed it from the start at Peachtree and Baker streets to the new city hall. In the upper left is shown a section of the parade heading down Peachtree just above the intersection of Auburn avenue. In the top circular view Bobby is shown speaking a few words over the radio at the city hall. Next to him are his three famous cups, the British amateur, the American open and the British open, the three most coveted trophies ever won by one man. In the upper right Bobby and his party are shown reviewing the parade from the porch of the Capital City Club. His daughter, Clara Malone; his wife and his three-year-old son also are shown in the picture. The lower circular view is one of part of the 300 negro caddies who did their level best to make it a great day for Bobby, while to the right the champion is shown riding in the parade. With him are Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, Robert P. Jones, Bobby's father, Mrs. Jones and, in the front seat, Al Doonan, chairman of the reception committee. Below is shown a part, but only a part, of the more than 20,000 who witnessed the ceremonies at the city hall.

President Agrees To Reservations

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.
WASHINGTON, July 14.—(P)—An agreement seemed assured tonight among the London treaty advocates on the Norris reservation and leaders looked confidently to early ratification of the naval limitations agreement as a result.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, the author of the reservation, said he was willing to strike from his resolution the preamble reciting the failure of President Hoover to give to the senate all of the notes and data relating to the London conference.

His reservation provides that the United States shall not be bound by an secret agreement or understandings which may exist outside the actual terms of the treaty.

No Secrets, Says Hoover.

Inasmuch as President Hoover and Senators Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, and Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, of the delegation to London, had asserted no secret understandings were involved in the treaty, some administration forces were opposing the reservation.

However, after a round of conferences today participated in by Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, Senators Reed and Robinson and Watson, of Indiana, and McNary, of Oregon, the republican leader,

DR. BROUGHTON MAY RECONSIDER

Hope that Dr. Len G. Broughton, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, will reconsider the resignation he submitted a week ago last Sunday was seen Monday night after a session of a church committee which lasted until after midnight.

Morgan Blake, one of a committee of nine, stated after the meeting that the committee had unanimously approved a program which met with the conditions fixed by Dr. Broughton before he would reconsider his resignation. This program now has to be passed upon at a church meeting Wednesday night and could not be disclosed until that time, Blake said.

Members of the committee who considered the pastor's requirements, as a condition precedent to reconsideration of his resignation, were George P. Whitman, H. A. Etheridge, L. O. Langston, J. E. Slider, J. W. Autry, Walter Ward, Ralph Stewart and J. W. Boone.

Declaring in a letter to the church in which he announced his intention to resign, effective September 1, that he had not received the co-operation he was promised when he returned here last September again to fill the pulpit of the church he was largely instrumental in founding, Dr. Broughton announced a purpose of engaging in general evangelistic and conference work.

Long Heat Wave Is Broken by Rain

Welcome rain Monday afternoon definitely broke Atlanta's severest heat wave in history, cooled a parched city, assured that what appeared to be a drought was not to be and gave Atlantans their second opportunity in one day to celebrate a homecoming.

With the rains a severe wind swept parts of the city, blowing down trees and generally raising a mild havoc. The wind was accompanied by lightning, the peals of thunder and in some sections by hail.

The storm did considerable temporary damage to lines, primary and transmission, of the Georgia Power Company, representatives of the company said. Service was interrupted for a few hours, but workmen soon had it restored, the interruptions occurring principally in the northwest and northeast sections of the city. Street car service was not hampered.

The heavy shower gave the city its first real cooling in a ten-day period, definitely stamping finis on a heat wave which had kept the temperature soaring around the 100-degree mark.

Although delayed until late afternoon, Atlanta Monday generally benefited by the approaching rain. Heavy clouds kept the mercury down to 90 degrees at 3 o'clock the hottest hour of the day.

BANKING LEADER SLAIN IN COURT

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—(P)—Angered by the sight of a man for whom he blames loss of his fortune, Frank D. Keaton, real estate dealer, today shot and killed Motley H. Flint, millionaire, in the Los Angeles county hall of justice.

Keaton fired three shots as Flint, brother of the late United States Senator Frank P. Flint, left the witness stand in a $250,000 damage suit.

"This fellow ruined me. He ruined me!" exclaimed the slayer. He threw the weapon at his victim and surrendered.

Flint, financial advisor to motion picture leaders and former Los Angeles postmaster, was one of 17 prominent men recently acquitted of usury conspiracy charges in connection with the collapse of the Julian Petroleum Company. He was awaiting trial on a charge of violating the state corporate securities act.

Keaton said a sudden rage, caused by the loss of savings entrusted to Flint, caused him to shoot.

"I put all my money in First National bank stock and it went down 100 points," he explained. "I had 4,000 shares. I didn't mean to kill him. I came down town looking for a job. I heard of this case. I came to the court room and sat down. Just when I saw him coming through the

Massed Thousands Cheer for Bobby

BY L. A. FARRELL.

Flag-draped, the Stars and Stripes floating proudly aside the unfurled Union Jack, its driver serenely manipulating a purring motor, an emperor's car comes into Peachtree at Harris.

From ten thousand throats comes a mighty cheer, the first of a roar of welcome such as Peachtree never knew before. Banked far and wide at the intersection are the thousands. Ahead one can see only faces, countless multitudes of them. And hear the blare of bands triumphant and the tread of marching, proudly marching feet.

Perched on the thrown-back top sits Bobby Jones. On the seat below sits his proud father. And his prouder wife, beautiful in white and wreathed in smiles. And beaming is the mayor, I. N. Ragsdale.

Motorcycle police clear the way. Back, back go the milling, pushing, shouting humans. Overhead airplanes are circling low. The motors seem to keep time with the marching feet ahead. The King of Golf acknowledges each and every new burst of cheering with a wider smile. Retire, as usual, now to the point of blushing, he receives this great tribute.

From overhead office windows come billows of confetti. It litters when Atlanta went wild. He knows what crowds are.

Massed Humanity Waits.

Slipping over the incline at Ellis street the car gets its first view of lower Peachtree. A dazzling sight. Men, women and children as far as eye can see. Shouting, pushing, each face turned northward anxiously awaiting Bobby Jones. The confetti is almost blinding now and from each office window comes streaming paper, strewn the path of the oncoming hero.

At the Forsyth and Pryor junction there are more people than ever stood there before. Atop automobiles, hanging from office windows, clinging to street lights, at every point of vantage they are. The shouting and the cheering is louder now, louder than ever before. The people who only see Bobby Jones when he comes home from his golfing wars are in this crowd. To them his fame is legendary. But they have read of him and to them he is a brother.

Slowly down through the confetti-showered canyon of Peachtree street moves Atlanta's great parade. From the Candler building to Fire Point and over the Whitehall bridge, all one can see is human beings. Fully a quarter of a third of all the people who live in Atlanta must have been crowded into these few blocks Monday noon. Mothers and fathers holding their children high. Other men and women pushing each other for front line places. The police frantically seeking to hold back them all. It was a dazzling sight.

Through it all a smile adorns the worn face of Bobby Jones. One can see the strain through which he has passed. Browned to a tan his bare head keeps turning from side to side. He wants to acknowledge the greetings of all. Mrs. Jones is smiling, too, and waving greetings, here and there. Big Boy, as they call the elder Jones, is having the time of his life. The mayor, too, is enjoying it. Truly it is a reception given to no one nowhere, save to a national hero, a world hero, come home.

At Five Points the crowd is at its peak. Far into Edgewood, Decatur and Marietta streets they stand, men with heads bare in the scorching sun, women fighting to save their head-dresses. Twenty thousand people must be here, maybe more. It looks more like fifty or seventy-five thousand. But milling and pushing crowds are deceiving. Anyhow it's a lot of folks. Over the bridge moves the Jones car. The crowd just seems to get denser. Every point of vantage is occupied. Over-occupied. At least four people are trying to get into spots built for one. And fat ones trying to get in where the leaners have just left.

And now Bobby moves into Whitehall street. Here are the masses. From all over the west and south side have come working people who have thrown down their tools, cast aside their aprons and gone to make holiday for a man that is a man. The cheering here becomes a pealing thunder, unending. Factory girls in their working garb. Men in overalls. Railroad shopmen. Firemen who couldn't get into the parade have slipped down from headquarters for just a glimpse of Bobby Jones.

Tribute to the Man.

One might take the demonstration here as a tribute to the man instead of the golfer. These people know little of golf. Many care less. It is a tribute too, to his mother and to his wife. The elder Mrs. Jones isn't in the party. She is ill. But she'll be told about it. With this mother and his wife to mold that famous heart and head which guide the still more famous arms Bobby might not be Bobby. And so the cheering becomes still deafening. A marvelous tribute.

Onward toward the city hall goes Bobby. Thousands are fighting their way in that direction, too. The Jones car is at the tail end of the long parade and the people want to hear his few words and see the mayor hear the praises of Atlanta upon his modest shoulders. The heat is terrific but no one seems to mind. It is the glory of participating in such a great welcome that drives them on.

At Mitchell street Grand Marshal Al Belle Isle is speeding the marchers and over at Capitol square the police are moving all briskly. Soon the great parade has passed on and Bobby is at the city hall, where fifty 55,000 people are jammed, awaiting his arrival.

With the mayor and his father, Mrs. Jones and Al Doonan, chairman of the reception committee, Bobby moves up the steps.

Welcome of Mayor.

The mayor begins to talk after Mr. Doonan has introduced Bobby formally.

"Bobby," he said, "We knew when you left home a few short weeks ago that you would come back crowned once, crowned twice and crowned thrice. We knew that you would bring home with you everything you went after. We have seen you go forth before and we knew just what you had in you."

"This is the proudest moment of my life. When I was up at New York two weeks ago I knew that the folks in Atlanta were preparing a big celebration for you. When I saw the great crowds in New York I told myself that the city could only outdo Atlanta in one thing and that was in numbers. Now I see that they couldn't even do that. This great outpouring here today and all through our city is a tribute to you as a gentleman and as a golfer. I shall always remember it and I know that you yourself shall never forget it."

Here the great crowd interrupted the mayor with "Whoop, Bobby," and "Hooray, Bobby." Bobby smiled the famous Jones smile and the mayor went on.

"It is a pleasure to all of us to have you a citizen of our great city, Bobby. It is a pleasure to all of us to do you honor. It is a greater pleasure for me to hand you this gold key to the city, our city and your

Bobby Jones Adds City's Gold Key to Many Prizes

Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., added to his collection of trophies Monday night another, not quite so expensive as the half-score of others he has hung to his belt, but one of which he is extremely proud—a golden key to the golden hearts of Atlantans and the south's Gate City.

Bobby Jones acquired the symbol of Atlanta's affection at a gala presentation at the city hall Monday afternoon with thousands of his admirers looking on and cheering wildly as he attempted to voice his appreciation between attacks of stage fright and the typical Jones modesty.

The key, a gold one, which Mayor L. N. Ragsdale assured him not only would open the gates of Atlanta to him but was only a meagre expression of the golden hearts of Atlantans which also will respond to its Aladdin touch.

Supported by the Atlanta police band and others equipped for noise rendering, the largest crowd which ever gathered on a city hall site paid its most touching and at the same time its most vociferous homage to Bobby and his wife, members of his immediate family and Al Doonan, chairman of the reception committee, stood beside Mayor Ragsdale while he delivered his tribute to the emperor of golf.

Mr. Ragsdale has had a privilege never accorded to an Atlanta mayor before—the welcoming of the nation's champion football team after Tech's successful invasion of California and of Bobby Jones, the undisputed peer of all golfers.

Praising Jones as the greatest golfer of all time and one of the most charming and modest young men on earth, Mr. Ragsdale launched into the highest tribute he has ever extended to any person while he has served as Atlanta's mayor.

Before the welcoming of the nation's champion football team after Tech's successful invasion of California and of Bobby Jones, the undisputed peer of all golfers.

He was all smiles and he spoke a few words which most of the crowd didn't hear, but they cheered all the louder.

The mayor then called the first of the living generation of Jones to the fore and the crowd cheered again. It was the aged Robert T. Jones, the first, Bobby's grandfather for whom he is named. The three generations of Jones posed for cameramen while the crowd did some more cheering and called for "Whistling Bobby."

Father Bobby smiled broadly at the mention of his now famous whistling three-year-old son, but he had been taken home after reviewing the parade in his daddy's honor from the piazza of the Capital City Club.

The great crowd didn't want to let Bobby go home, though it seemed that he had done everything imaginable but the mayor and the police saw that he was safely escorted to his car and whisked away to Northside drive and much needed rest.

Bobby Reviews Parade.

Bobby reviewed the parade from a stand erected on the porch of the Capital City Club. He was flanked by Mrs. Jones, Chairman Doonan of the reception committee, Mayor Ragsdale and Major General Frank R. McCoy, commander of the fourth army corps area.

In many respects it was one of the greatest parades ever witnessed in Atlanta, in enthusiasm at least for each of the units as they passed smiled and shouted a greeting to Bobby. The bands played martial airs and went swinging on down Peachtree clearing the way for the one and only Bobby Jones.

Bobby had arrived shortly after 9 o'clock. He was taken from the Pont de Leon at Chattahoochee where he was met by Mrs. Jones, his little daughter, Clara Malone Jones, and Whistling Bobby, who gave his father an unique demonstration of his newly-acquired art less than two minutes after the world's champion golfer alighted from the train.

From Chattahoochee, Bobby went home with his family to rest a couple of hours before the parade. He arrived at the club about 11:30 o'clock, half an hour before the marchers were to begin, and immediately became the center of a large and enthusiastic handshaking crowd. Just as the parade moved up he took his place on the reviewing stand.

Beavers Leads.

First came Chief of Police James L. Beavers, resplendent in his shining uniform, and a corps of policemen followed by a motorcycle squad. Then the 122d Infantry band and some 600 citizen soldiers foot. Major Ben Huelet's horse provided much entertainment, though the mount was well controlled by the rider.

Next came the Disabled American Veterans, cheering and saluting. The veterans received a hearty greeting, and all down Peachtree street they were met with cheers. In fact, every unit of the parade came in for its share of cheering, with Bobby as usual winning the championship when he fell in at the end.

Fire Chief John Terrell and 100 firemen followed the veterans. One giant engine formed part of this unit. Then came the chamber of commerce delegation in automobiles, all of them sticking their heads out to wave and about a greeting to Bobby on the reviewing stand. The chamber's delegation was one of the largest it has ever turned out for a parade. It was followed by Joe Ray and 75 members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, all of them early decked out in neat golfing uniforms. The golfing Jaycees drew a great hand at the reviewing stand and all along the route.

The civic clubs, Kiwanis, Rotarians, Civitans and others followed in motor cars, each club with a representation of more than 20 members.

Legion and Crackers.

One of the most unique features of the parade followed the one-horse shay of Brown & Allen, with Uncle Sam and John Bull riding side by side. Uncle Sam had Johnny in tow just as Bobby has had the British golfers in tow every time he goes after their scalps.

Then came the American Legion drum corps in bright uniforms and a delegation of legionnaires, followed by members of the Atlanta baseball team in uniform and the members of the team's board of directors. Bobby is a vice president of the Crackers. L. W. (Chip) Robert, president, and Rell J. Spiller, vice president and general manager of the team, were on the reviewing stand.

The Crackers were followed by a large group of Tech alumni and 1,000 employees and high officials of the Georgia Power Company headed by the company's well-known band in their green and white uniforms. Many of the power company's employees rode in big double-decked buses and strew confetti and noisy greetings as they passed.

Negro Caddies Big Hit.

Three hundred negro caddies from Bobby's home club, the East Lake, the West End and the Capital City

Clubs followed and many of those along the line of march which were saving their confetti for Bobby almost let it get away from them in their enthusiasm for the caddies. Nearly all of the caddies carried signs, "Welcome Home Mr. Bobby," but perhaps the most well received was one carried by the boys from the Capital City Country Club which read:

"Welcome Home, Mr. Bob. You Sho Brought Back the Bacon."

The caddies were headed by the Negro Elks' band, the handmen in bright uniforms and the drum major a champion in his own right.

Then came the delegations of the Georgia Hotel Greeters' Association, the Atlanta Athletic Club, the A. A. C. basketball team and delegations from all of the city's downtown and country clubs.

The police band which had been lined up in front of the reviewing stand fell in and so did Bobby and his reception committee.

All in all, it was one of the most memorable days in Atlanta's history. Crowd records were smashed and new figures which likely will live for scores of years were set. It will take another Bobby Jones Day to break them.

Not satisfied with the explanation of a man and his wife who told detectives they were wounded "accidentally" by a single shot fired by an acquaintance of the husband, John W. Lowe, of the detective bureau, Monday was searching for a man known as Owens, while the couple, J. S. The shooting occurred Sunday night on Parkway drive near For-

Growing to Order

The public asks for more A&P

The tales Americans are the proudest of are those of poor boys who rose to greatness, and of modest business ventures that became great industries.

Like many early American businesses, A & P was once small but hopeful—a single little store. About all A & P could call its own in 1859 was its red painted front and the belief that women like good food at low prices.

The first A & P store was a busy store—so busy that a second store was added, then a third; and . . . the little business grew up. It became a leader among food merchants, slowly and naturally, unaided by vast capital or mergers.

Ask yourself why A & P grew . . . It grew because the public accepted and encouraged A & P's methods of doing business. The A & P store in your neighborhood is there because great numbers of women want it there.

A & P is a little store that made good.

McDONALD IS FREED TO HELP MOONEY

Maryland Court Refuses To Hold Witness Against Whom There Is No Charge.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 14.—(UN)—John MacDonald was a free man tonight, ready to go to California in an effort to liberate Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, but just when he will go and under whose auspices has developed into quite a question.

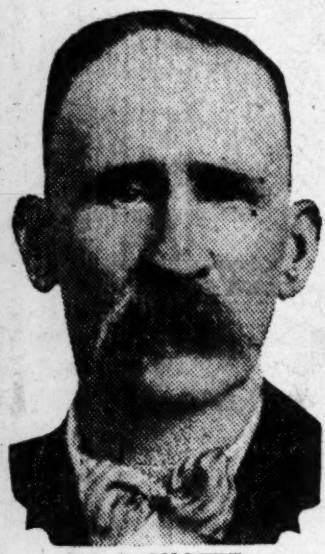

Shortly after the key witness in the famous case was released from police custody today, dispatches were received from California in which Governor C. C. Young announced he would not grant MacDonald a hearing until after the August 20 primary election. MacDonald wants to tell Young and the state supreme court that he lied when he testified he saw the two men at the scene of the 1916 San Francisco preparedness parade explosion.

This news came somewhat as a surprise to his youthful lawyers, Charles Ruzicka and Hilary Gans, who were planning to take MacDonald to the coast within a week or 10 days after preparation of their case here. After an all-day conference in their office with the decrepit MacDonald in an outer room, they dispatched a telegram to the governor telling him they were ready to take the witness to the coast, and asking him to set a date their first and only relief from years of suffering.

Such was the experience of J. S. Gilbert, well-known retired farmer of 1618 Jonesboro Road, Atlanta, who recently said:

"At the age of 71, I'm still strong and full of energy and I give Sargon all the credit for my good health."

"My liver hadn't been working right for ten years or more and this brought on chronic constipation that poisoned and weakened my whole system. I had 'liver spots' all over my face and I was all out of fix from 'head to foot.' My food would ferment on my stomach and I had a terrible time with indigestion and smothering spells."

"The Sargon treatment cleared my system of poisons, got rid of every ailment I had, and just seemed to 'make me over again.' I eat with my old time appetite and never have a trace of indigestion. I sleep fine, have gained ten pounds and just seemed to be filled with new strength and vitality."

"Sargon Pills regulated my bowels and liver in a mild, natural way. Their effects are lasting, too. Now I believe all the good reports I hear about this wonderful Sargon treatment."

HE SUFFERED FOR YEARS WITH PILES

Some Doctors Said Ulcers;
Others Abscesses and Others Piles

A SIMPLE LITTLE REMEDY CURED IT

"After you have suffered as I did for three years and spend all I did in vain you surely feel grateful when something comes along and heals you up and makes you well and happy at my age, 79 years," writes C. F. C. Stamp, who like scores of people here, praises Colac Pile Pills to the sky.

"Some doctors called it abscess, others ulcers, and some just piles, but I was in terrible pain with almost a steady flow of bloody mucus, or sometimes it was a clear red blood. Our family physician and a couple more did their best for me, and I had already used the remedies advertised in the papers, so you can imagine my relief when I found Colac Pile Pills were each day lessening the pain and bloody flow. It got less and less until it quit, and the bowels moved regular and comfortable again. They surely healed me up, and made me well and happy," continued, Mr. Stamp, a well-known farmer of Preston, Iowa.

"Seven out of ten past forty years of age are apt to suffer with some mild or serious rectal trouble. Colac Pile Pills—a couple with a swallow of water at meal times—do good to countless thousands. Hoover School Will Graduate Fifteen Children

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Fifteen mountain children who have learned their "reading and 'riting and 'rithmetic" at the school which President and Mrs. Hoover established near their own lodge in Virginia are to hold their first commencement on Friday.

With the big day near, the mountain folk are hoping anxiously that the chief executive and Mrs. Hoover will be able to attend the exercises.

But the White House has been unable to give assurance of this because so long as the senate is in session Mr. Hoover never knows until the last minute whether he will be able to leave the capital.

Twenty-two pupils first enrolled, but with some being called home to help on the farm and others dropping out for other causes, only 15 have been able to remain faithful to their desire for learning.

Miss Christine West, the teacher, now is closing the school for the summer so that they can go back to their

Goldsboro Pinned Beneath Airplane

BENNINGTON, Vt., July 14.—(AP)—Frank Goldsboro, 19, holder of the junior transcontinental flight record, was pinned beneath the wreckage of his plane in the woods near here today. Donald Mockle, a companion, made his way from the plane wreckage to Goldsboro, but was unable to locate the position they had crashed.

Goldsboro and Mockle left the Buffalo (N. Y.) airport this morning and, according to Mockle's story, crashed into a tree in the wooded mountain lands west of Bennington.

Mockle, footsore and suffering exposure and minor injuries, said as he had been unable to extricate Goldsboro from the plane wreckage, Goldsboro still was alive when Mockle left for help.

For five hours Mockle wandered in the woods, finally making his way to a farmhouse, where he was given transportation to Bennington.

New Trial Refused To Florida Slayer

SEBRING, Fla., July 14.—(AP)—Circuit Judge W. J. Barker today entered a formal order in circuit court here denying a motion for a new trial for William Raymond Carver, former Philadelphia and Miami real estate operator, recently convicted on a charge of first degree murder of his wife.

The court had announced last Friday that the motion would be denied.

Passing of sentence was delayed until later because of an agreement between W. D. Bell, chief defense counsel, and State Attorney L. Grady Burton, who was absent from today's hearing. The trial jury convicted Carver of first degree murder but recommended mercy, which automatically would carry a sentence of life imprisonment.

A large number of spectators attended today's session, which was brief and featured by the absence of the defendant and the presence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Carver, of Miami.

Carver was granted 120 days in which to carry an appeal to the state supreme court. He also is under indictment for the hatchet slaying of his two-year-old son, Lee Townsend Carver, and the fatal shooting of Ben Whitehead, negro servant.

In addition to menacing traffic, the old structure will mar the rapidly growing beauty of the downtown section of the city," Mr. Kauffman said. "A new two-span viaduct would eliminate the unsightly superstructure and at the same time give permanent safety."

Two-Span Broad St. Viaduct Advocated

Urging replacement of the old one-span Broad street viaduct over the railway tracks between Alabama and Marietta streets, with a two-span structure, C. E. Kauffman, city bridge engineer, Monday pointed out that in addition to being in a dangerous condition the Broad street bridge with its superstructure mars the beauty of that section of Atlanta.

The bridge under discussion was built in 1895 and is one span 142 feet long and 70 feet wide.

"In addition to menacing traffic, the old structure will mar the rapidly growing beauty of the downtown section of the city," Mr. Kauffman said. "A new two-span viaduct would eliminate the unsightly superstructure and at the same time give permanent safety."

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 14.—(AP)—Six cars of Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 116 the New Orleans Kansas City Special were derailed at Redfield, Ark., 20 miles southeast of here at 1:45 p. m. today when the train struck a cow and knocked it into a switch which opened, railroad officials said here.

The passengers, two negro women and a white passenger, were injured, one of the negroes seriously, according to reports received at the general superintendent's office here.

CARSWELL WOULD NOT RENAME J. R. PHILLIPS

Board Member Declared To Be "Last Remnant of Old Holder Machine."

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., July 14.—Definite declaration was made today by George H. Carswell, candidate for governor, in a speech delivered here today, that in case he was elected he would not reappoint John R. Phillips as a member of the state highway board.

"Many of my friends," declared the speaker, "have asked me the question whether or not I elected governor I would reappoint John R. Phillips as a member of the state highway board of Georgia, and to them I have replied that I will not. Many friends have written me asking the same question. To each of them I have written a letter stating that I will not."

"The state highway board of Georgia is composed of three members. The people of Georgia are vitally interested in the personnel of this board. The office or membership on this board is a public office. While not desiring to discuss the public or private record of Mr. Phillips, as he is not a candidate, yet I think the people of Georgia are entitled to know my attitude on the question of the reappointment of Mr. Phillips to the state highway board."

"I desire to say here and now to the people of Georgia that, in my opinion, the reappointment of Mr. Phillips will not be to the best interest of the state highway board nor the state of Georgia. He is the last remaining portion of the old Holder machine, which I maintain has cost the people of Georgia millions of dollars."

Replies to Criticisms.

ROCKMART, Ga., July 14.—(Special.)—George H. Carswell, candidate for governor, spoke here tonight. "In interviews given to the Sunday press, certain gentlemen, candidates for governor, make the statement that I am the candidate of the present administration. They make this statement solely because, as a citizen and public official, I have upheld and supported the present administration. There is no other basis for the statement."

"I have been for a number of years in public life and served under more than four administrations in official capacity. Some of the gentlemen occupying the executive office during that period of service I have actively opposed, and others I have actively supported. I have always believed that it is the part of good citizenship to support and to uphold the successful candidate and aid in every way I can to make his administration successful. I deem it the part of good citizenship and a requirement of an honest public servant that he should forget his political differences, and whether political friend or foe of the gentleman elected, to hold up the hands of the one who becomes the governor of all the people, and to render every possible aid in making the administration successful. Every governor under whom I have served will testify that I have with me. The public records of this state demonstrate it."

AUTO DEATH FOLLOWED BY CHARGE OF MURDER

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 14.—R. C. Charleston, an electrical worker, is held in Lowndes county jail without bail on a warrant charging murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Frank Kirkland, as result of an automobile accident on the Clayville road Saturday night.

Charleston and Mrs. Kirkland were riding in an automobile which overturned on the highway, crushing the woman fatally. Her death followed within a few moments after she reached a local hospital. Charleston was rendered unconscious by the accident, but his injuries did not prove to be serious. He was later arrested on a murder charge and placed in jail. Later another warrant was sworn out against him charging him with being drunk and driving an automobile on the highway while in an intoxicated condition.

Charleston denies that he was drunk and also states that he had not taken a drink at all. He says he was stunned into unconsciousness by the overturning of the car and his condition when picked up may have led to the belief that he was drunk. Owing to the fact that one of the warrants charges murder, it is impossible for Charleston's friends to obtain his release on bail until he is given a commitment hearing. His attorney has arranged for this to be given by Judge J. G. Cranford on Wednesday morning.

out the preamble would be satisfactory to the administration. With the preamble eliminated, Senator Reed said he could see little to the resolution as "everybody knows there are no secret agreements."

Stimson said he was in agreement with what Senator Reed said. As President Hoover moved to map out a definite plan of action, the senate entered its second week of debate with several absentees returning to the chamber to insure a quorum. The opening roll call today showed 52 present and later trains brought new arrivals. Close to 80 members were believed to be in the city tonight.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, and one of the delegates to London, led the debate today for the treaty supporters. He was followed by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, and Odell, republican, Nevada, who assailed the pact.

Early Vote Seen.

With this reservation out of the way, there is a feeling that an early vote on ratification of the treaty is in prospect. Four members who have hitherto been absent—Senators Gould, Maine; Pine, Oklahoma; Kean, New Jersey, and Greene, Vermont, all republicans, and all listed as advocates for the pact, returned to the chamber today.

In addition to the 52 who answered the opening roll call, the following later appeared: Pine, Greene, Walsh, of Massachusetts; Dale, Vermont; Hatfield, West Virginia; and Copeland, New York.

Treaty proponents are anxious to avoid resort to the cloture rule limiting debate. Senator Borah has informed the president he is not a "cloture man." Adoption of this rule limits debate to one hour to each member and it is used only when filibusters develop. It will be used now, leaders say, only if a filibuster is made against the treaty.

Senator Robinson in his first speech to the senate on the pact cited six reasons for urging its ratification. He concluded with the statement:

"It is my belief that our country and its commerce will be safer with the treaty than without it; with no thought of placing the navy in a position of substantial inferiority to that of any power; believing that the treaty will do justice to our citizens and work no oppression to others, I urge its ratification."

Condemns Hoover.

Senator McKellar severely condemned President Hoover for his refusal to turn over the papers called for by the senate.

have more 8-inch gun cruisers to combat what he termed the "merchant marine menace."

"The unprecedented division of cruiser tonnage and the severe restriction on 8-inch gun cruisers," he added, "is inequitable to the United States."

The question of trade protection was said by the Nevada to "go to the heart of the treaty." By the pact, he argued, the United States is given a navy "not properly balanced for trade protection."

COMMONS GIVEN TREATY MEASURE.

LONDON, July 14.—(P)—The British government in the house of commons today took the first step toward ratification of the London naval treaty, which is now under discussion by the United States senate in Washington.

A bill giving effect to the treaty so far as Great Britain is concerned was introduced into the house by A. V. Alexander, labor first lord of the admiralty, and was given its first reading. There was no discussion.

In British parliamentary practice the first reading of a bill is a mere formality. Debate is opened on the second reading, or still later, at the committee stage. After a third reading the bill goes to the house of lords for three readings and a committee stage.

Experienced observers believe that debate on the treaty bill in the house of lords may be protracted, but surmise it will pass through all stages in both houses without great difficulty.

latter city included roofs blown down and porches and chimneys demolished. Showers in Arkansas and East Tennessee, both parched by long droughts, were heavy, but in most other sections of the south they were light and of little help to crops.

Hail fell in Georgia Sunday night in the Macon area. In Arkansas, it was thought, suffered most from the heat. Temperatures of 104, 106 and 108 were common last week. Ten deaths from heat prostration and one from drowning occurred Saturday and Sunday.

The entire state had been in the grip of abnormally hot weather for weeks. Crops have suffered greatly. The temperature at Little Rock Monday was 86 degrees, the first time it had been out of the 90s in weeks.

The deaths included the Rev. Father Joseph Froitzheim, 53, who died in Little Rock Sunday.

Nine Dead Near Memphis.

Nine deaths were reported in the Memphis area and one in Montgomery, Ala. The thermometer reached 113 degrees at Columbus, Miss., Sunday. Memphis had 103 degrees. Both cities reported cooler weather Monday.

A negro died at Cairo, Ga., Monday from prostration suffered last week. The body of another negro drowned in the Satilla river near Waycross Sunday was recovered Monday.

In Virginia it rained hard enough Monday to extinguish a forest fire on Brush Mountain, near Blacksburg. Florida was one of the few states which did not suffer in the heat wave. A breeze was generally available, and Floridians made the most of it while their neighbors in other southern states burned up.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(P)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd showed off today on a two-and-a-half-month "liberty party."

Today he attended his last formal

CALOMEL ROBBED OF OBJECTIONABLE EFFECTS, AT LAST

Success Crowns Efforts of Pharmaceutical Chemists to Rid Popular Medicine of Its Nauseating and Dangerous Qualities—Calotabs the New Name.

A triumph of modern pharmacy that is destined to bless the whole world, from the King on his throne to the humblest laboring man—that is the opinion of druggists who have been watching the sale of the new calomel tablet that is free from the objectionable effects of the old-style calomel.

An occasional purifying of the system and thorough cleansing of the liver are absolutely essential to the maintenance of health, and calomel is the only drug that gives permanent results. Now that the unpleasant effects are entirely removed, the popularity of the new calomel, Calotabs, will be vastly increased. One tablet at bedtime, with a glass of water, that's all—no taste or unpleasantness of any kind. A good night's sleep and you wake next morning feeling fine, with a clean liver and a hearty appetite. Eat what you please—no danger.

Beware of imitations! Genuine Calotabs are sold only in "checker-board" (black and white) packages bearing the copyrighted trade-mark "Calotabs." This large, family size sells for thirty-five cents; vest-pocket size, ten cents. All dealers are authorized to refund the price if you are not delighted with Calotabs.—(adv.)

luncheon of the reception cruise—sponsored by the Wright Aeronautical Company—and in a few days will leave for Dublin, N. H., his summer home, there to write and rest and stay with Mrs. Byrd and their children. On September 30 he will start a lecture tour that will carry him all over the United States, again forced to play the role of hero. This summer he hopes to be just plain Dick Byrd, working author, country squire, on furlough from public attention.

The round of receptions, luncheons, dinners he has attended since he landed in New York last month from the antarctic adventure would have tested the temper and digestion of half an army. Admiral Byrd seems to have stood it well. Intimate friends who appeared today more fresh than when he came back from the land of ice.

Eager to escape public adulation, the admiral has laid aside his distinguishing naval uniform, white ducks, gold epaulettes, gold braid-trimmed cap and put on "civies." When he departed from his train in Pennsylvania terminal this morning, home from reception in Chicago and St. Louis, he mingled unnoticed in the flood of returning vacationists.

The admiral has no plans beyond his lecture tour next winter except that it will be time to talk of far places yet to be explored, to think of high-flying mountains, barriers of ice, a long trail, a good wind and sporting jobs to do.

Work To Start Today On New Water Main

County forces Monday began the work of unloading pipe for the new Peachtree road water main, and will start digging the ditch within the next few days. The county will lay a 16-inch main from Buckhead to Piedmont road, and a 12-inch main from that point to the county line, to supplement the six-inch main laid many years ago by the Peachtree Water Company and to relieve the water shortage on Peachtree road. Temporary relief is being given water consumers in that section by installation of a cross-connection between the Wieuca road water main and the six-inch Peachtree main.

MRS. IDA FLAGLER DIES; IS BURIED SECRETLY

Divorced Wife of Standard Oil Founder Leaves Large Fortune.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(P)—Mrs. Ida A. Flagler, wealthy divorced wife of the late Henry M. Flagler, a founder of the Standard Oil Company, was buried Sunday in Cypress Hills cemetery, Brooklyn. Her death, which occurred on Saturday in a sanatorium, was the result of a long illness.

She possessed a fortune estimated at $12,000,000. Mrs. Flagler was divorced by her husband in 1901 on the ground that she was incurably insane. At that time he established a $1,000,000 trust fund for her which mounted rapidly from her Standard Oil holdings.

Her principal heirs are said to be two nephews and a grand niece, George W. and William W. Taylor, and Ruth E. Taylor, of Passaic, N. J. Mrs. Flagler was 82. She was the daughter of an Episcopal minister and was married to Mr. Flagler in 1883.

Mrs. Flagler's death did not become known generally until after she was buried. Then it was learned that funeral services had been held on Saturday at the sanatorium. The services, attended only by members of the immediate family, were conducted by the Rev. George W. Dumbell, of St. David's Episcopal church, Highland Mills, N. Y.

Several members of Mrs. Flagler's family were with her when she died. Her health had begun to fail four weeks ago and that time relatives were notified that the end was near. The names of those who attended the funeral were not made public. Mr. Flagler died in 1913.

Shortly after their marriage Mr. Flagler, through his holdings in the Standard Oil Company, became very wealthy. For many years later Mrs. Flagler developed symptoms of insanity. For a number of years her husband marshaled the skill of medical science in the effort to restore her to health. The effort failed, however, and it finally became necessary to place her in a sanatorium. In March, 1933, she was declared legally insane, the verdict of the alienists being that she was incurably afflicted.

Two years later, on August 14, 1901, Mr. Flagler divorced her in Florida, which state has recently passed a law which made incurable insanity grounds for divorce. Mr. Flagler at that time was the owner of the Florida East Coast railway and of a number of hotels in St. Augustine and other communities of Florida.

Mrs. Flagler was then at the sanatorium of the late Dr. Carlos E. MacDonald at Central Valley, N. Y., where she lived in a private cottage with her own maids. Dr. MacDonald was appointed the guardian of her person. The sanatorium later was acquired by Dr. Charles W. Pilgrim, and after Dr. MacDonald's death he was appointed guardian of her person.

SPECIAL ACT OBTAINED DIVORCE.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 14.—(P)—The death in a New York sanatorium of Mrs. Ida A. Flagler, divorced wife of the late Henry M. Flagler, who built the Florida East Coast railroad, recalled the stir in legal circles which their divorce created in 1901.

The divorce was obtained by the millionaire railroad and oil man by special act of the Florida legislature as the statutes of Florida do not make insanity grounds for divorce in regular court action.

Mr. Flagler married again and on his death his widow wedded Judge Robert W. Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times. She has since died.

State Auto Death Toll Fixed at Five

Five persons were killed and 43 injured in automobile accidents in Georgia in June, it was reported by G. C. Blount, maintenance engineer of the state highways department, Monday.

Two of the dead were killed in collisions, and three died when cars left the road. Twenty-six of the injured were hurt in collisions, 15 when cars left the road, one was injured when an automobile struck a parked car, and the other was a pedestrian struck by an automobile.

Six of the 25 accidents reported occurred on curves and 19 on straight roads.

Ill Luck Still Dogs Efforts Of Bromley

TACOMA, Wash., July 14.—(P)—Ill luck for the fourth time has thwarted Harold Bromley's ambition to attempt a non-stop Tacoma-Tokyo flight.

Three of his planes destroyed by accidents, the fourth proved too slow for the 4,780-mile flight. After a test yesterday the aviator announced he would be forced to stop in the Aleutian Islands for refueling.

Meanwhile Roberts Wark and Eddie Brown, Seattle fliers, continued preparations for a similar flight, beginning Thursday, the day Bromley plans to take off.

Wark and Brown have announced a plan for a non-stop flight to the Japanese capital, which includes refueling in the air above Juneau and Nome, Alaska, and possibly over the Machatka peninsula.

Bromley's first plane crashed a year ago when he tried to take off here. Lieutenant Herbert Fahy, test pilot, was seriously injured when the second plane crashed. Fahy later was killed in another air accident. H. W. Catling was fatally burned in the crash of the third craft when it was being tested.

CHURCH LEADER HITS TAMPERING WITH LAW

CLEVELAND, July 14.—(P)—E. J. Gallmeyer, Ft. Wayne, Ind., president of the Walther League, Lutheran church society, on the practice of "tampering with the United States Constitution," was the outstanding feature of today's session of the league's national convention here.

Gallmeyer did not mention the prohibition amendment specifically, but by inference, "I am talking about tampering with the constitution for the purpose of regulating personal conduct," he said. "If we mean and sincere people can tell us what to eat and to drink, what assurance have we that they will not very shortly tell us how when and where we shall worship?"

The speaker declared that the "tampering" places the constitution in jeopardy. The constitution should be left as a fundamental guide, rather than as a statute for regulatory laws, according to Gallmeyer.

The great majority of Lutherans hold this view. Gallmeyer also attacked religious bodies which he said use the "arm of the law" to compel the rest of the country to conform to their views. "I thank God," he said, "that our country has not permitted itself to be run by the policies of the country but rather, that they have confined their work to being true shepherds of the flock, following the footsteps of the Good Shepherd, Himself."

The Walther league president then urged the approximately 2,000 delegates who are attending the convention to avoid bigotry and to "hold the torch of freedom high." He said the young people of today are "all right," and are superior intellectually to the young people of a generation ago, but that today's youth needs more reverence.

Priest Pleads Guilty To Dry Law Charge

NEW YORK, July 14.—(P)—The Rev. John Petrykany, pastor of the Ukrainian Orthodox Catholic church, Youngstown, O., pleaded guilty in federal court today to an indictment charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

He was indicted last month with the Rev. Charles Mzena, former bishop of the Czechoslovakian Old Catholic church and 17 others in an investigation centering about the withdrawal of sacramental wine for alleged beverage purposes.

Father Petrykany was continued in $2,500 bail and sentence was deferred when he said he wanted to aid the government in "clearing up the situation." He previously had pleaded not guilty.

Endurance Flight Litigation Ends

CHICAGO, July 14.—(P)—Litigation involving the endurance flight profits of the Hunter brothers will be settled out of court, it was announced today. A motion to restrain the flying Hunters from using the proceeds of their flight was withdrawn.

The motion was filed while John and Kenneth Hunter still were soaring above Sky Harbor in the record-breaking plane "City of Chicago."

It was in behalf of stockholders of a defunct concern which once owned the plane.

The stockholders averred that the plane was sold to the Hunter brothers without their knowledge.

POPE PIUS WARNS U. S. OF BOLSHEVIK SPREAD

Catholic Prelate Sees Danger in Current Economic Crisis.

VATICAN CITY, July 14.—(P)—The pope today solemnly warned the United States to "beware lest bolshevism spread in America at this moment of financial depression and unemployment."

The warning was conveyed during a private audience to Monsignor John A. Ryan, rector of the National Catholic University, Washington, D. C.

Evidencing dislike for bolshevism, and at the same time showing remarkable knowledge of conditions in the United States, the pope said, "This is the ripe time for the spread of bolshevism. The people of the United States do not realize how far it has spread already nor completely what its spread means."

The pope introduced the subject of his own accord by bringing up the Wall Street reverses of last year. "We hear that, following the market crashes there has been considerable unemployment," the pontiff remarked.

Monsignor Ryan said there were at least "a couple of millions" unemployed in the United States. "When a number of people are out of work and when business leaders are crippled by depression and unable to care for them, this is a favorite period for the introduction and development of bolshevism," the pope responded.

The pontiff related that he had first received a forcible impression of the strength and growth of bolshevism in London some years ago, before his elevation to the sacred office. The pope asked Monsignor Ryan many questions concerning business and political conditions in the United States, disclosing his keen perception of American affairs. He then asked Monsignor Ryan his personal opinion on the status of bolshevism in America.

The Washington clergyman replied that although unemployment in America had increased considerably, still he believed that bolshevism would have a much harder time of it in the United States than in other countries, because of the average workman's ownership of property, which would make him disavow the principles of communism.

In fact, he told the pope, many millions of workmen own their own homes, and perhaps automobiles, too, an argument which the bolshevists would have a hard time meeting.

After repeating his warning that America should pay the closest attention lest bolshevism develop, the pontiff dropped the subject.

MRS. MCCORMICK DENIES EXPENSIVE CAMPAIGN

Republican Nominee Attacks Nye for Statement on Expenses.

CHICAGO, July 14.—(P)—Appearing before the senate inquiry into the Illinois republican senatorial campaign, Ruth Hanna McCormick today defended her personal expenditure of $252,500 and said an additional $67,214 was used in her behalf by volunteer organizations which supported her campaign.

Mrs. McCormick presented a 7,000 word statement in which she criticized Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the special campaign funds committee, for asserting that his investigation had found she had spent approximately $325,000 instead of the $252,500 she had reported.

The republican senatorial nominee said Senator Nye's statement was inaccurate and misleading, based on the fact that she voluntarily had admitted a supplemental report setting forth the spending of the $67,214 before his investigators had inquired into those expenditures.

The $67,214 was obtained by contributions from friends and relatives, Mrs. McCormick said. The Voters' Progress League used $44,000, the Illinois Young People's Republic Club $15,000 and the Ruth Hanna McCormick volunteers $8,214.

Mrs. McCormick said her report of expenses was "a document which should be scrutinized by all citizens interested in the problem of campaign expenditures. The report for the first time tells the whole story without any confusing complications either as to source of money, the nature of the disbursements, the exact total expended or as to who spent it."

She said she had no intention of contributing to the public effort to understand our primary election system and offer a basis for remedial legislation.

Mrs. McCormick reiterated that she had conducted her campaign solely as an independent republican candidate without any alliance with any faction or group. She washed her hands of the Chicago "city hall machine" and all other Cook county organizations, but acknowledged that she undoubtedly had been more or less benefited by the opposition of various factions to the candidacy of Senator Charles S. Deneen, her opponent.

She called attention to the fact that her campaign cost her only $42,433 for each 1,000 votes as compared with the $105 for each 1,000 expended in the presidential campaign of President Hoover in Illinois.

She referred to the charge given wide publication that $1,000,000 had been spent in her campaign. She challenged that statement and repeated that the report of her expenses made under oath to the committee on May 1 was correct and complete.

Mrs. McCormick said Senator Deneen had the position of five different republican factions in Cook county and that this fight for local control resulted in his defeat by those who were conducting their own organizations, but with none of which she had any alliance or understanding.

She told the committee the statement that the city hall organization "delivered" her victory in Cook county, ignored the fact that she led some of the city hall candidates by from 20,000 to 150,000 votes.

In response to questions by Senator Nye, Mrs. McCormick said she never had heard of the Century of Progress Women's Club and knew of nothing, if anything, that was done by it in her behalf. She described the personnel and duties of her regular staff of employees and outlined her extensive agricultural interests and publishing business in Rockford, Ill., to show that she regularly employed a large staff which helped her in her campaign, but should not be considered as an extra campaign expense.

She said she had not exercised her franking privilege as congresswoman to mail campaign literature.

Senator Nye told Mrs. McCormick he had not said she spent more than the $252,500 she reported, but did say, and would say now, that he had evidence indicating considerably more than that amount was spent in her behalf.

Gotham's Noise Is Tabulated By Sound Truck

NEW YORK, July 14.—(P)—New York is not quiet at night. At times without attracting auditory attention 30 feet away.

A report of the city's noise abatement commission, made public today, reduces to figures the intensity of the flood of noise which immerses New York.

A decibel, the smallest change the human ear can detect, is the unit of loudness. An average conversation, measured at a distance of three feet, is 60 decibels, a million times the intensity of the smallest sound. A lion's roar, as determined at the zoo, is 86 decibels.

Decibels express a ratio. If the intensity of two sounds are in the ratio 10 to 1, they differ by ten decibels.

Riveting 10,000,000,000 times the loudest noises that sound on the ear drums of New York. Riveting is 90 decibels, explosives 98, a steamship whistle 95, a subway express 90, a street radio loudspeaker 81. Normally, to the ear the ordinary din of a street, a sound must be of 60 decibels.

A traveling noise laboratory on a truck measured sound in various parts of the city.

Prisoner Protests Way Out of Jail

EVANSTON, Ill., July 14.—(P)—To guests who are in jail and want out, the method of William E. Young is herewith recited for what it may be worth:

Mr. Young was in jail because he couldn't post bond after being arrested for driving recklessly. He is a person easily irked by incarceration. After a few hours he demanded an audience with the officer in charge, Sergeant Weidinger.

"Sir, this jail is unbearable. I am unable to read the newspaper, the light being out. To call the contractor in my cell a bed is to label a noble piece of furniture. The atmosphere is dank, damp and dismal. I certainly do not intend to catch cold in a dump like this."

To which the sergeant made reply: "Mr. Young, I had no idea our humble quarters were so miserable. You run along home. I would be most unhappy if your health should be impaired."

And so Mr. Young got out. Of course, it might not work for everybody in jail, but it worked for Mr. Young.

The only thing is, he'd better come back for trial Saturday, or he may catch cold after all.

Miami Will Drop Capone Charges

MIAMI, Fla., July 14.—(UN)—Sensational Al Capone appeared absolved of all charges today as Special Prosecutor Richard H. Hunt announced the directed verdict and acquittal on one charge of perjury Saturday indicated other charges still pending will be withdrawn.

He said Capone's action June 19 in retracting the allegedly perjured statements before a justice of peace who conducted the hearing at which the original testimony was given had forestalled prosecution.

The perjury counts resulted from Capone's testimony in a hearing of false arrest charges he brought against S. D. McCreary, director of public safety. The state accused Capone of swearing falsely that McCreary held him incommunicado, denied him food, water and blankets and had threatened to arrest other members of the Capone family staying at the expensive white-walled residence on Palm Island, within the boundaries of the neighboring community, Miami Beach.

Man Borrows $50, 'Pays' It to Bandits

Lee Morris, a transfer man, Monday night was in a tough financial spot. They were threatening to "take" one of his motor trucks, and he needed $50—quite acutely.

Came a friend who let him have the money, and Morris, supremely happy, started the trek homeward to 572 Formwalt street.

On Crumley street between Pryor and Central avenue he was accosted by two negro men, who, now, Lee Morris, a transfer man, is still in a tough financial spot, he told Call Officers Ed Norwood and M. O. Evans.

Mysterious Disease Follows Earthquake

GANGTOK, SIKKIM, India, July 14.—(P)—The populace of this little state has become greatly worried by a mysterious epidemic which since the earthquake of a few days ago has claimed 45 lives. Many others are ill and not expected to survive.

The theory of some physicians that the earthquakes, disturbing the earth's surface, uncovered dormant germs, has been accepted to some extent. The disease is similar to cholera.

Sikkim, perched on top of a range of the Himalayas, shook like a skyscraper during the quakes. The tremors damaged many buildings and cracked house walls throughout the country.

Armored Bank Truck Robbed in Brooklyn

NEW YORK, July 14.—(P)—Forcing an armored truck to the curb at a crowded intersection in downtown Brooklyn, four men in a large touring car held up the messenger and driver today and escaped with $18,000 in cash and $5,000 in checks.

The money was being taken from a Sheffield Farms Company branch to the Kings County Trust Company.

NEW GASOLINE PROCESS EXPLAINED BY CHEMIST

Expert Relates Method To Double Production of Fuel.

NEW YORK, June 14.—(P)—The Standard Oil Company and 16 companies associated with it in the use of a process by which gasoline production can be doubled will produce the hydrogen for the process in their own refineries as a by-product, it was announced today.

Frank A. Howard, vice president of the Standard Oil of New Jersey, said the hydrogen would be taken from coal gas, natural gas or refinery gas, depending on which by-product is most available at the individual refinery. In the past commercial hydrogen has been almost prohibitively expensive.

The process by which the production of approximately twice the amount of gasoline from a given amount of raw oil is to be accomplished was explained today by Edward F. Chandler, New York engineer and chemical expert. It begins on crude oil, he said, where the present "cracking" process stops.

"By hydrogenation it is possible," Chandler said, "actually to 'manufacture' gasoline from heavy oils which cannot be handled by the cracking process."

Gasoline consists of carbon and hydrogen. In the heavy oils there is not sufficient hydrogen. Therefore in order to manufacture motor gasoline from these oils, it is necessary to add hydrogen.

"This is not as simple as it may seem. Chemists and engineers have been working on the problem for years. During the last 15 years many patents have been issued to inventors in this field. Doubtless the most intensive worker in this line is Dr. F. Bergius, the German chemist. His process was originally designed for obtaining oil from coal."

"In experimenting he found that if a mixture of coal and oils was subjected to high pressure and high temperature while passing through a mass of hydrogen gas, most of the coal was converted into oil. He then directed his attention to the production of motor gasoline from heavy petroleum oil by his hydrogenation method."

"He found that when oil in the liquid state was heated to a temperature of from 550 to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit under a pressure of from one hundred to two hundred and eighty times that of the atmosphere, in the presence of hydrogen, very little coke and gas was formed, and a large yield of light oil was obtained."

"To which the sergeant made reply: 'Mr. Young, I had no idea our humble quarters were so miserable. You run along home. I would be most unhappy if your health should be impaired.'

And so Mr. Young got out. Of course, it might not work for everybody in jail, but it worked for Mr. Young.

Tariff Betrays Farmer, States Joe Robinson

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(P)—Saying "the shadow of gloom still falls all over the United States," Senator Robinson, the democratic leader, expressed doubt today that the tariff and farm marketing laws would relieve the situation.

The Arkansas senator, speaking over the National Broadcasting system, said a study of the Smoot-Hawley tariff showed it would fail in its "primary purpose" of resuscitating agriculture.

"There exists a widespread conviction," he said, "that the tariff law as it stands today is a failure. It has failed to bring about the relief of agriculture, and it has failed to bring about the relief of the farmer."

He said the farm marketing act was still in the nature of an experiment, but added there was nothing to cause hope that it "will prove beneficial to the degree which its champions contemplated."

The minority leader noted the marketing act had met opposition from private agencies "fearing the competition from co-operatives and stabilization corporations," and said this "obstruction" had gravely hampered the board.

The flexible provision of the tariff law, Robinson said, "is a delusion and a snare."

"Less than 40 rates have been increased or diminished by the president through power conferred upon him by the flexible provision," he said. "In all important cases dealt with in this way, there have resulted increases."

"This is not as simple as it may seem. Chemists and engineers have been working on the problem for years. During the last 15 years many patents have been issued to inventors in this field. Doubtless the most intensive worker in this line is Dr. F. Bergius, the German chemist. His process was originally designed for obtaining oil from coal."

"In experimenting he found that if a mixture of coal and oils was subjected to high pressure and high temperature while passing through a mass of hydrogen gas, most of the coal was converted into oil. He then directed his attention to the production of motor gasoline from heavy petroleum oil by his hydrogenation method."

"He found that when oil in the liquid state was heated to a temperature of from 550 to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit under a pressure of from one hundred to two hundred and eighty times that of the atmosphere, in the presence of hydrogen, very little coke and gas was formed, and a large yield of light oil was obtained."

"To which the sergeant made reply: 'Mr. Young, I had no idea our humble quarters were so miserable. You run along home. I would be most unhappy if your health should be impaired.'

And so Mr. Young got out. Of course, it might not work for everybody in jail, but it worked for Mr. Young.

The only thing is, he'd better come back for trial Saturday, or he may catch cold after all.

The perjury counts resulted from Capone's testimony in a hearing of false arrest charges he brought against S. D. McCreary, director of public safety. The state accused Capone of swearing falsely that McCreary held him incommunicado, denied him food, water and blankets and had threatened to arrest other members of the Capone family staying at the expensive white-walled residence on Palm Island, within the boundaries of the neighboring community, Miami Beach.

He said Capone's action June 19 in retracting the allegedly perjured statements before a justice of peace who conducted the hearing at which the original testimony was given had forestalled prosecution.

PEACEMAKERS WORK IN TURBULENT INDIA

Moves Made To Restore Good Feeling for Conference.

SIMLA, India, July 14.—(P)—Peacemakers occupied the center of the stage today in the turbulent Indian situation, making definite efforts to bring about a better atmosphere preparatory to the impending London round table conference.

Muslim bodies made moves of certain significance in this direction. Experienced observers believe the political atmosphere was better today than at any time recently. An official resume of the situation in the country as a whole to the end of last week also took a cautiously optimistic view. It declared recent indications of a decline in the civil disobedience activities had been maintained. The government communication nevertheless contained details discouraging to the too optimistic.

A recrudescence of unrest on the northwest frontier and in several Indian towns as students returned from their vacations resulted in new conflicts.

In Bengal it was declared that though the civil disobedience movement as a whole was decreasing, a tendency toward violence was growing and there are signs that the terrorist party may become more active.

An incident in the Punjab May 6 when troops directed fire toward Siganj Guardwara, the sacred shrine at Delhi, again is being used by the extremists to kindle ill-feeling among the Sikhs. The official report states, however, that there is no reason to believe the Sikh community as a whole has been seriously affected.

Indian princes met at Simla and agreed to a formula to express their views regarding the Simon report. It was understood that while favoring co-operation in carrying out the design of an ultimate federation and agreeing to join the council of greater India, princes reject the report, they expressed regret that the report failed to recommend a supreme court of India which they consider an essential preliminary to the federation.

She Lost 19 Pounds of Fat in 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote—"My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast—do not overeat—walk a little each day.

Be sure and do this every morning for "the little daily dose that takes off the fat."—Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's life-giving salts is carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fiber of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from Jacobs' Pharmacy or any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.—(adv.)

HULSEYS ON TRIAL IN TRIPLE MURDER

Brother-in-Law Testifies Two Sought His Help in Disposing of Bodies.

CEDARTOWN, Ga., July 14.—Tom Hicks testified Monday in the trial of his father-in-law and brother-in-law, William and Fred Hulsey, that the defendants came to his home on the night of June 18, told him they had killed three men and asked him to help dispose of the bodies.

The Hulseys are charged with the murder of Cliff Jones, Lige Harper and Ernest McCullough, whose bodies were found June 20 in an abandoned well near Rockmart.

The state theory of the case is that the three men were killed by the Hulseys after they had been inveigled into a drinking and gambling party at the Hulseys' home, and had won the Hulseys' money instead of being fleeced.

Ray Hulsev, another son of Wil-

Hicks said when the Hulseys came to his home with their proposal to help dispose of the bodies he demurred, saying he "didn't want to get into trouble," but they told him they already had taken the bodies five miles from their home, and that there was no danger. He said he made an excuse to get away, but came back later to find the Hulseys still there. He said he got away again on another excuse and spent the night at a neighbor's home in fear that he would be killed if he refused to fall in with their plans.

While the joint trial of father and son was in progress the grand jury still had under consideration charges

Judge Edwards, who called a special term of court for the trials, overruled two motions for continuance made by the defense. One motion was on the ground that Defense Attorney

W. F. McRae, of Atlanta, had had insufficient time to prepare his defense. The other was on the contention that the jury had been improperly summoned.

Ninety-six talesmen were examined before the jury was completed and taking of the evidence begun.

Bicycling and Tree Sitting

EASTERN BOYS RIDE, MID-WESTERNERS PERCH

Occupy Young 'Endurers'

Chicago, July 14.—(UN)—The mid-west's trees were nearly as full of endurance sitters tonight as they were of birds.

Almost any shade tree in half a dozen states had its endurance sitter, either a girl or a boy, propped up on a mattress or some such waiting patiently for fame. So many were the sitters, however, and so vociferous were their claims, that fame came to none although out in Kansas City 14-year-old Jack Richards had been in his tree for 87 hours at this writing.

Jack's mother wasn't so enthusiastic about her son's feat, but her neighbors were. Said one:

"We know where our children are while he's in the tree, they're under it." Jack himself was confident.

"I'll stay here until school starts," he said, "I am only 14 but I can set as good as if I were older."

Alva Mudd, Jr., who is 10, also was doing some endurance tree sitting. After he sat for 23 hours, observers below reported that he had gone to sleep but apparently was in no danger of falling off.

Half a dozen other youthful Kansas Cityans clamored for publicity with the simple expedient of selecting a good, stout-limbed tree and perching there. Among them were two girls, Eva Bates, 12, and Charlotte Finnell, 11, both of whom have been aloft now for 23 hours. Said they in effect, if not in union, from neighboring trees:

"We want to show that girls are as good sitters as boys."

Here in Chicago the endurance sitters also were making the branches creak.

Too much refueling ruined the valiant attempt of Louis Sanders, Jr. He was forced down at the end of 65 hours with an old-fashioned stomach-ache, brought on, said his mother, by too many sandwiches and too much soda-pop, hoisted to him by solicitous playmates, acting as the refueling crew. At last reports he was in bed sleeping off the ill effects.

Nearly, however, Herbert Ellingham, Jr., and Eddie Swanson, Jr., both 12, remained in their trees through a heavy rainstorm and on into the night while gawking citizens stood below thinking up wisecracks.

About 500 people clustered around the tree until someone suggested that they take up a donation for Herbert and Eddie. The suggestion was unpopular and Herbert and Eddie got only $5.

Other endurance sitters cluttered up the forests in Wisconsin and Michigan until the lowest estimates placed the total number at 50. Health authorities in Milwaukee and Racine issued proclamations against the sitters, but the action was in vain. An endurance sitter, it seems, is a determined sort of child, so tenacious that nothing short of a parental paddling or a serious pain will bring him down.

Hackensack, N. J., July 14.—(UN)—The glory of the Hunter brothers, Elmer Smith, Shipwreck Kelly, Noah—of all of the endurance champions of the past—has faded as far as the city of Hackensack is concerned. Here dwell four youthful bicyclists who go around and around.

They have been going around and around for a week, spelling one another on Jimmy Dooley's "bike," a machine that is likely to give up and surrender before the riders are ready to quit. Already the frame is rickety, the tires have lost precious air and the sprockets are squeaking a very sorry melody.

The "record"—a rather nebulous affair—already has been shattered. From somewhere came a report that four Indiana school boys had cycled for five days. This puny achievement was equaled at 6 P. M. Friday and Jimmy and his mates rode on from there.

The track is around the Jackson school, where Jimmy, Zia Hoffman, Salvatore Uzzadino and Tony Pengu are students in the winter time. Now that summer is with them Jimmy, who is 14, could think of no better way of spending a vacation than in endurance bicycling.

He seems to have started something. Already juvenile quartets from Hackensack High school and from schools in New Brunswick and Middle Ferry have set out to better whatever mark finally is reached by the Dooley-Hoffman, etc., combination. The New Brunswick lads are fudging a little bit by not using the same bicycle.

Four bicycles, naturally enough, might be expected to outlast one. That is why Phil Orsini, 17, the "manager" of the local riders, dismisses the rival endurance effort contemptuously.

Orsini, by the way, is having difficulties as a manager principally because there is little to manage. He is open to all money-making suggestions but the nation's advertisers thus far have been slow to deal with him. The same way with the press.

"Don't say too much to the reporters," Orsini told the cyclists. "Wait 'till we get a signed contract for the inside story of this here ride."

A source of elaborate annoyance to Orsini is the fact that there is no way to collect gate admission from the scores who turn out daily and nightly to watch the pedalers. The school yard is public property and in consequence spectators can not be assessed. Things like that sit pretty hard on a fellow.

The boys normally ride for six hours at a shift and make their headquarters in two small tents near the school building. They have been examined by Charles Todd, the school's physical director, to see whether their health was being endangered. The verdict was satisfactory and so the grind went on, not to stop until the bicycle itself finally revolts and collapses.

It was impossible to predict just when this would occur. At 8 o'clock Sunday night the boys had been over the handlebars for 170 hours, had made 20,882 laps and had traveled an estimated distance of 2,817 5-9 miles.

When word was received that Florence Broderick, pretty 21-year-old wife of the lightkeeper on Gabo island, was dying the Amaze was ordered to sea with a surgeon. After being battered by the storm and swept from end to end by mountainous seas, the warship boys off the barren island.

Blue jackets cowed the surgeon through the surf to the rocky shore and all that night he remained at the woman's bedside. In the morning he was able to report that the crisis had passed and his patient was out of danger.

Gabo island is a mere rock off the eastern coast of Australia and its powerful light warns shipping away from treacherous shoals which have been the scene of many disasters. The only inhabitants are the lightkeeper, his wife, and an assistant.

Senate Scored

For Dalliance

On Naval Treaty

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, July 14. (AP)—Criticism of the senate for delaying action on the London naval pact and for its attempt to secure from President Hoover the correspondence in regard to the treaty was voiced in a letter of Representative Cyrus Cole to Senator George H. Moses, New Hampshire, made public tonight.

"Even in Russia they would hardly propose such diplomatic indecision," Cole, who yesterday returned from Washington, wrote in regard to treaty papers.

"If the senate is going to bawl through another summer, the country will feel disposed to shut up shop," the letter said, in part. "It has already been talked into all the distress it can stand. In the name, not of the party, but of patriotism, vote, quit, go home. Give the country a chance to recuperate."

Man Hit by Unknown Assailant Succumbs

O. T. Foster, fruit peddler, who was struck by an unknown assailant about two weeks ago and carried to Grady hospital in an unconscious condition, died there Monday night. Foster was found, after he had been attacked by a Constitution carrier boy who notified police.

Due to paralysis of the vocal cord Foster was never able to tell police who struck him but by nods of the head indicated that it was a white man whom he knew. The attack occurred at Felton drive and Currier places.

Bobby's Big Crowd Mirrors

VAST THROGS PROVE CITY IS METROPOLIS

Atlanta as Great City

BY WILLIAM O. KEY, JR.

Atlanta saw itself in a mirror Monday—a living mirror of multitudes—that this town of ours is the New York of the south.

For years people who have lived here have looked at their city through the printed words of civic pride in which many descriptions have been used. But it remained for Bobby

Man Resembling Wood Arrested 15 Times

SPARTANBURG, S. C., July 14. (AP)—John Lewis Powell, (not Otto Wood), spent last night here outside the county jail.

Hitch hiking from Richmond to Atlanta in search of work, Powell, who says he is from Augusta, Ga., had been arrested 15 times in North and South Carolina as officers mistook him for Otto Wood, North Carolina's best known convict and runner-up to Houdini in escaping from iron bars.

Powell has a limp in his left leg and a shrunken left arm as a result of injuries received several years ago. He resembles Wood.

Five officers arrested him in Charlotte, N. C., and locked him up. He was arrested in Gastonia, N. C., and there had police write a letter explaining he was not the escaped convict. He was arrested in other places.

Jones' return to hold up before the city's eyes the thrilling scene of reality that justifies the oft-heard contention that this town of ours is the New York of the south.

Many parades has the old town seen, and always on occasion there have been crowds. But the spectacle that spread out before the populace Monday afternoon when the Alexander of Golf rode smilingly by was no mere street scene of a good-sized town.

It was a mighty concourse of humanity that watched the processional tribute to the mightiest champion, and it was moved and swayed as if by one omnipotent mind.

Beautiful in Temper.

Its temper was beautiful, that crowd. In the dazzling rays of a high-noon sun that beat mercilessly down on the countless thousands not a murmur of discontent was heard. All up and down the line perspiring faces were plastered with smiles—little tots, awe-inspired and not quite grasping the informality of it all; gawky boys in their early teens forgetting for the moment all their Smart Aleckism, young men and women, old men and women all were patient, placid and smiling. Even a scattering of young men in arms forgot to cry until the moment all their Smart Aleckism, young men and women, old men and women all were patient, placid and smiling.

With one exception there has never been a bigger crowd of people on the streets of Atlanta at one time, and there may be many who will challenge that exception—the night of November 11, 1918, when the word came flashing from overseas that hostilities had ceased. On that night, looking backward twelve long years, with me more unreliable at best, it might be said that the Armistice holidays were larger than the swarms of humanity down town Monday. But the two crowds had nothing in common, and the manners of one were not those of the other. That night a dozen years ago, the crowd, while hilarious and for the main part seeking only to give vent to its exultation, was disorderly in one significant wave of intoxication—an intoxication of victory after a hard and bleak struggle. There were fights here and there, and the khaki-clad, lantern-jawed M. P.'s used their clubs more than once while numerous arrests were made in cases of undue boisterousness.

But the Bobby Jones crowd—there was a crowd for you! It revealed Atlanta in all its well-mannered pride. There is no use trying to estimate the vastness of it, for a guess of 100,000 might easily fall before another calculation of 150,000, jammed along the line of march from Baker and Peachtree clear to the city hall. No grumbling, no howling, no obstreperous horse-play from one end to the other.

The Crowd Gets Away.

Only once did the multitude execute what it considered its privilege on an occasion notwithstanding the shrill shrieks of traffic policemen's whistles. That was when the car bearing Bobby himself whizzed by.

Prior to that the crowd had overflowed the Peachtree sidewalks and had ebbed outward into the streets. A few sought vantage places on the concrete safety islands of the street car landings, but with instant severity the policemen would chase them back. The crowd obeyed as if it were one timid man, edging meekly back into a tight jam against the front ranks of those who had kept their curb positions.

But when the end of the parade approached and the crowd sensed the oncoming car of the champion, a mighty shout went up and thousands upon thousands moved up in serried rows—still leaving plenty of passage-way for the cars, mind you—and strained eagerly forward to view their hero. Blasts of carnival horns drowned the frantic shrieks of the policemen's whistles. Deafening roars of applause dwarfed the bawling voices of the officers of the law who still persisted in attempting to stem the mighty wave of human beings back into the sidewalk areas.

Then the cops saw the great light. They stood helplessly aside and grinned, red-faced. It was something of a new experience for them not to be able to ride herd successfully on parade crowds, but it suddenly seemed to dawn on the guardians that this was not an ordinary parade and that this was not an ordinary collection of people.

Besides, no one was threatening to obstruct the right-of-way. They only wanted to yell, "Hey, Bobby!" So the policemen saw that this city of Atlanta once you got a lot of its taxpayers together. The taxpayers, too, were in a happy mood—which made it wonder shiveringly what a crowd this large in an evil temper might do and Bobby rode by.

They miffed him, they waved at him, handkerchiefs fluttered with the Stars and Stripes in the feeble July breeze that sprang up. Confetti and serpentine tape came down in a veritable snowstorm. And Bobby smiled looking not a whit tired after his conquest of Interlachen.

The Lion had been at bay up there in the lake country, but in this sea of yelling faces he seemed to realize that here, once again, lay home.

President Hoover To Journey West

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(P)—President Hoover has decided definitely to make his trip to the west this summer unless unforeseen circumstances develop.

He hopes to be able to leave soon after the senate adjourns.

The trip will be considerably curtailed, however, from the extensive swing planned originally, which would have taken him into six national parks in the Rocky mountains and to his home at Palo Alto, Cal.

He has excluded from the itinerary now under consideration California, Oregon, Washington and, probably, Colorado.

When he first announced his plans expected to leave the latter part of this month and spend about five weeks traveling by automobile and train, but prolongation of the senate's session has forced curtailment.

Under the tentative itinerary it was believed he would start the swing at Glacier national park, near the Canadian border, and then travel southward, possibly visiting Yellowstone and Grand Canyon parks and Texas.

Enforcement Arrests Protested by Iowans

DUBUQUE, Iowa, July 14.—(P)—Citizens have wired a protest to Senator Smith W. The dry enforcement officers who caused the arrests had been previously fined for traffic violations.

The quartet, Mayor Frederick Walter and Marshals C. D. Bales, of McGregor and Marshal Frank Barton and Ernest Lane, of Marquette, were released on $2,000 bonds.

The filing of federal charges against them was at the direction of Colonel George C. Parsons, deputy prohibition administrator, followed an alleged attempt on the part of the four men to hinder Federal Agents Harry H. Kirshman and Robert H. Taylor in making a raid on the John Johnson billiard hall at Marquette last Wednesday.

Court To Hear Cases On Motor Bus Lines

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 14.—(P)—The state supreme court tomorrow will hear oral arguments in three cases involving the right of motor bus companies to appeal from rulings of the state railroad commission.

The cases bring up points never before presented to courts of the state. It was said here today. An act of the 1929 legislature prohibited operation and activities of motor bus transportation lines under the jurisdiction of the railroad commission.

The act appears to allow no appeal from the rulings of the railroad commission, it was said. In order to determine the question of right of appeal, the supreme court has issued writs in the three cases and the issues will be argued tomorrow.

The cases are those of the Seaboard Air Line railway and the Seaboard and Louisville & Nashville railways and the Motor Transportation Company of the South versus the Union Bus Line and the Florida Motor Lines.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

A MISLEADING NAME.
By Thornton Burgess.

A name quite often may deceive. Be sure you know what you believe. —Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was all excited. But he was soon to be still more excited. He had made the acquaintance of Egret, the Great White Heron. Egret had told him that he had a handsome cousin, who also dressed wholly in white—Snowy Egret; also called the Little White Egret. Also, Egret had

"Look, Peter, look over toward the Big River!"

There was still another of the Heron cousins who dressed in white and that when he had come up from the sunny south, some of these white cousins had come with him. He had parted from them at the mouth of the Laughing Brook where it entered the Great River.

"I do wish," said Peter, "that those white cousins of yours would come up here to the Smiling Pool. How I should like to see them."

Hardly were the words out of Peter's mouth when Jerry Muskrat squeaked, "Look, Peter, look over toward the Big River."

Peter looked. Winging their way straight toward the Smiling Pool came three big birds that Peter recognized at once as Herons. All three were white, all white. At least, that is the way it seemed as Peter looked up at them.

"Here come my cousins now," said Egret. "You'll have a chance to become acquainted with them." Each of the visitors in turn dropped his long legs and alighted on the edge of the Smiling Pool near where Egret was standing. There they stood with their necks stretched up after the fashion of all Herons when they alight. Peter fairly gasped, for it was a wonderful sight to see four such big birds all in white.

Peter noticed at once that Egret was the biggest. Also, he saw that the three new arrivals had black bills, while the bill of Egret was yellow. He also noticed that the legs were rather greenish. Now that they were so close, he saw that two of the three had a few bluish markings, which would not be seen at a greater distance.

"These are my cousins, the Little Blue Herons," said Egret to Peter and Jerry.

"Who did you say they were?" Jerry Muskrat asked, and his face wore a puzzled look.

"Little Blue Herons," replied Egret. Jerry rubbed his eyes and pretended there was something the matter with them. "I guess I need new eyes," said he.

"There was a funny look of surprise in the eyes of Egret. "Why do you need new eyes?" he asked.

"So that I may see correctly," replied Jerry. "Now, those cousins of yours look to me to be all white, but you say that they are blue."

"Nothing of the sort," declared Egret. "I didn't say they were blue; I said they were Little Blue Herons."

"Do you mean," spoke up Peter, "that they are the children of Longlegs the Great Blue Heron?"

Egret shook his head. "Of course not," said he. "The children of Longlegs the Great Blue Heron never were white in their lives. These are the children of Little Blue Heron and that is why they are called Little Blue Herons. Little Blue Heron is no bigger than they are now."

"And is dressed all in white, too?" asked Peter.

"Of course not," replied Egret, beginning to get a little impatient. "They wouldn't call him Little Blue Heron if he were."

"Then why do they call these Little Blue Herons, when they are white and blue at all?" demanded Peter. "I'm getting all mixed up."

'Loose Ankles' Fills Cameo With Laughs

Loretta Young is co-starred with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in "Loose Ankles," the feature showing at the Capitol the first half of this week. "Loose Ankles" is a comedy plot from start to finish, with Louise Fazenda and Otis Harlan holding up the slapstick end of the comedy and the two stars indulging in various light capers which bring many chuckles.

The story is that of an enormously wealthy young lady, who, in order to keep her despised relatives from inheriting, with her, a large sum of money, determines to become involved in a scandal, thus voiding the will of the deceased uncle and sending the money to care for the cat and dog hospital. She advertises in the paper for a "young man, attractive, willing to be compromised." Three gigolos, with a fourth boy friend, whose finer sensibilities keep him from such a profession, rope him into answering the advertisement. Then the fun begins.

At the Capitol.

"THE UNHOLY THREE," all-talking Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture with Lon Chaney. Four acts of Lon Chaney's vaudeville. Also feature short subjects. Feature picture starts at 1:30, 4:00, 7:00, and 10:00 p. m. Vaudeville starts at 2:00, 5:00 and 8:30 p. m.

The old master is back at his old tricks. Lon Chaney, the man of a thousand faces, adds to his long bunch of voices and brings down the house with a picture which is a picture. In "The Unholy Three," at Loew's Capitol this week, Chaney proves to the fans what he is missing when they saw his silent pictures.

"The Unholy Three" played Atlanta as a silent picture several years ago and the verdict of the movie fans was highly in Lon's favor. In the new production of this thrilling film story, Chaney does everything he did in the silent picture, and so much more.

AIR VIEWS

AT CANDLER FIELD

gram is Eddie Borden, a comedian whose conversation is so different from anyone else's that it is hilariously lacking in sense. A good looking girl who plays the accordion helps Eddie a lot.

Use Marvenga, a vocalist with oodles of "It" drew encores Monday afternoon for her singing of light opera favorite numbers and the four Phillips thrilled sufficiently with head balancing and juggling stunts.

The feature picture is light, but excellent entertainment. Charles (Buddy) Rogers is the star and his support includes Kathryn Crawford, Josephine Dunn, Carol Lombard, Virginia Bruce and Geneva Mitchell. No one, star or otherwise, ever had a more lovely support. In fact, who could have loved her?

Buddy sings a number of times in the picture, displaying a pleasant enough voice and he also demonstrates an ability to play a number of musical instruments—best performance on the slide trombone. The plot is, as light, but it is plenty for summer weather.

Bobby Jones at Interlachen draws a big hand in the Paramount Sound News "Silly Symphony" and a short comedy feature complete the program.

At the Rialto.

Ken Maynard in "Song of the Cabellero," a Sonny Jim comedy, and a Graham Page picture. Feature starts at 11:30, 1:10, 2:50, 4:30, 6:10, 7:50 and 9:30 o'clock.

"Song of the Cabellero" has its setting in old California in the days of the Spanish don. Its story is that of a bandit, in reality the nephew of a don, who, because of an old family quarrel, preys upon his uncle's estate.

A blood feud between the bandit and the don reaches its climax at the time of a celebration in honor of the marriage of the don's son.

A succession of colorful scenes ensue in which soft Spanish music plays a predominant part.

The producers of the picture have woven into it a sufficient number of musical scenes to make it largely a melody of Spanish music. Several scenes in which gypsy music and dances are given add to the interest of the show.

Ken Maynard does much hard riding, and sword play figures in the climax. The show is typical of a number of adventuresome Spanish films which have appeared lately.

The comedy, one of the Sonny Jim brand, furnishes some 15 minutes of genuine amusement. Sonny Jim, a silly, round, fat, comical character, poses as a girl, a role in which grown-ups as well as the younger generation will find him amusing.

At the Metropolitan.

"HE KNEW WOMEN," with Lowell Sherman, etc. News reel and short subjects. On the stage, program of Radio Keith-Orpheum vaudeville. Feature starts at 11:30, 1:10, 2:50, 4:20, 6:08, 7:47 and 9:28.

If you like large crowds, numerous locations and rapid-fire action in your talking picture entertainment, you'll not be enthusiastic about this time. "He Knew Women," the attraction this week at the Metropolitan.

However, if you like sophisticated comedy, laughs that approach the intelligent rather than the physical, scintillating lines and a brilliant dissection of modern men and women and their attitude toward love and matrimony, you'll revel in it.

Also, if you like to see a performance by an actor who fits his role like a perfect fitting pair of gloves and who is the cynosure of all eyes, you'll find "He Knew Women" the picture play by S. N. Behrman and it follows the stage play—which, I believe, went under the title of "The Second Man"—with utmost fidelity. There is, practically, about one scene, the bachelor apartment of Sherman. There are four roles, played by Sherman, Alice Joyce, Frances Dade and David Mann. All are excellent actors, adroitly handling the lines of an adroitly written play.

It is the lines that provide the backbone for the production and they are, literally, brilliant. They scintillate with worldly wisdom and the way in which Behrman lays bare the hidden motives behind his two couples can be likened only to the way in which a surgeon lays bare tissue with his scalpel.

The story deals with two couples, one old enough to be from the about money matters and the evanescent quality of love, the other young enough to be enraptured with romance and to believe in eternal faith and never-dying affections.

Things work out right enough in the end, of course, but in the progress of the play there is sufficient suspense to sustain curiosity, in addition to the rapt interest inspired by the aforementioned dialog.

It is worth more than the stunner prices now being charged at the Met. There is a short comedy subject to fill out the program which, however, is hardly of sufficient importance to mention.

'Ladies of Leisure'

Thrills at Empire

A strong story, capable direction and a splendid cast render "Ladies of Leisure," Columbia all-talking film of New York night life, shown to capacity audiences Monday at the Empire theater, corner of Georgia avenue and Crew street, a dramatic triumph. Tempo, atmosphere and big moments are deftly handled and the result is a performance as artistic as any ever given on the talking screen. This film will be shown for the last time today. The plot concerns the efforts of Jerry Strong, an artist, to awaken the spiritual side of Kay, a gold-digger he has engaged as a model. Barbara Stanwyck gives an intensely human performance in the role of Kay, as does Ralph Graves in the role of Jerry. A finished piece of work is contributed by Lowell Sherman while a delicious bit of comedy is given by Marie Prevost. Manager

CUOMINTANG BREACH

CONSTRUCTIVE MOVE

Writer Finds Present Chinese Situation Reverse of Three Years Ago.

BY HENRY T. MISSELUWITZ.

United News Cable Editor.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The second major split in the Kuomintang, or people's party in China resulted Sunday in the first constructive move from the point of view of the secessionists—on the part of the northern alliance.

The United News correspondent in Peiping reported that leaders of the Kuomintang met there and signed an accord agreeing to co-operate in the establishment of a new government at Peiping. They also agreed to unite against General Chiang Kai-shek, head of the government at Nanking—the recognized government, in fact, of China.

China thus stood again today much in the position politically that she stood three years ago—divided north and south, but with the "rebels" this time organizing in Peiping instead of Canton, and intending to march southward against the man whom they now declare a military dictator.

The difference lies in the fact that all the men engaged in the present civil war profess membership in the Kuomintang and adherence to the principles of the party as laid down by the founder, the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen. Most of the men in the Peiping split fought side by side with Chiang Kai-shek in the original drive from Canton against the north.

The first split in the Kuomintang occurred in the spring of 1927, when General Chiang broke with the so-called moderate faction and established the government at Nanking.

That split resulted in the rapid ouster of the Russians, led by Michael Borodin, capable propagandist who overplayed his powerful hand, and the success of Nanking under General Chiang Kai-shek.

That was in the summer of 1927. Borodin left hurriedly in August that year, Peiping felt the following summer, and it was two years ago this month almost to the day that the Kuomintang triumphantly pronounced its unity and moved the capital to Nanking.

In the two years since, the Kuomintang itself has been rent by factions which General Chiang, as president of China, has sought to bring together. Differences of opinion on the powers of the central government and a growing feeling that Chiang Kai-shek was becoming too much of a dictator resulted in widening breaches which became open breaks in the past year.

The three major factions in China today are:

1.—The northern alliance, including the two major leaders, General Yen Hsi-shan of Shaan province, and Marshal Feng Yu-shiang, so-called "Christian general," who control most of China north of the Yangtze, with the exception of a small area in the lower Yangtze valley.

2.—The Kwangsi province clique, in the midwest, led by men who were revolutionists with Chiang Kai-shek in the original march northward.

General Aguinaldo

Takes Third Wife

MANILA, July 14.—(AP)—General Emilio Aguinaldo, who led the Philippine insurrection against the United States in 1899-1901, today was married to Miss Maria Agoncillo. The wedding was performed by Father P. Agoncillo, cousin of the general, in the little Sampaloc district church here.

The ceremony was attended by about 20 relatives and intimate friends of General and Mrs. Aguinaldo. No Americans were present.

After a wedding breakfast at the Agoncillo home the couple left for Baguio, summer capital of the Philippines.

The bride is about 40 and the sister of Gregorio Agoncillo, one of the wealthiest of Philippine landowners. General Aguinaldo had been married twice previously.

Obliging Shark

Returns Knife To Fishermen

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., July 14.—(AP)—When a man-eating shark runs off with bait, catch, tackle and even a knife, that is to be expected from the creature, but when the same shark brings the knife back—that's something else again.

Captain Ruben Munroe and W. G. Barron, Port Everglades pilot, returned from a fishing trip today with a story of the sea which will be hard to surpass.

They had hooked several red snappers and each time they started to haul them in, the old man-eater, some 14-feet long, would snap the major portion of the fish away. He would follow the quarry to the very edge of the boat for a second bite.

So Captain Munroe leaned over the side while Barron reeled in a snapper. As the shark swung alongside for his second helping of the fish, Munroe sunk his long fishing knife to the hilt in the man-eater's flesh. But the shark swam away with the knife still protruding from its back.

"Well, I guess that's the last of old man shark," Munroe said to his companion. But he was wrong.

Not more than half an hour later the shark again appeared beside the boat.

"What he —" ejaculated the fishermen. Captain Munroe reached over the side and salvaged his knife before the big fish again swam away. Maybe the shark had enough snapper for one day. And on the other hand, perhaps he did not have any use for the knife while it was sticking in his carcass. Anyway, he did not bother the fishermen further.

Rural Haiti Teachers

Paid $4 a Month

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—Rural Haiti depends for its education on teachers who are paid $4 or $5 a month. Dr. Robert R. Moton, principal of Tuskegee institute and head of President Hoover's Haitian commission on education, said today on his return with the commission from a 24-day tour of the island.

Dr. Moton said the commission's report will be completed and sent to the president within a few days. Although he declined to discuss the nature of its findings, Dr. Moton said that the report would include several recommendations which he felt were essential to Haiti's progress.

Returning with Dr. Moton on the Cristobal were the other members of the commission—composed of one white and four negro educators. They are Leo M. Fabrot, of the Rockefeller Foundation's general education board; Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University; W. T. B. Williams, dean of Tuskegee institute, and R. F. Hubert, president of Georgia State College for Negroes.

Also in the party were Dr. R. H. Barlow, of the state department, who supervised travel, and Dr. C. T. Vessoff, secretary for the commission.

627,900-Share Turnover Is Largest in Three Weeks

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.
Associated Press Financial Editor.
NEW YORK, July 14.—The curb market gave one of the best displays of strength in weeks today, to the accompaniment of rumors of a revival of the long-dormant bull party. Gains, a rule, were moderate, but the advance embraced almost the entire list.

The advance was regarded in some quarters with caution, however, for the recently oversold condition of the market alone, it was felt, would naturally lead to a substantial rally. There was nothing in the day's meager business news to give any conclusive clue to trends. Although sales aggregated 627,900 shares, it largest turnover in three weeks, trading was still light according to present-day standards.

Utilities were fairly active. Electric Bond & Share gained 2 points, and such issues as American Superpower, Middle West Utilities, United Light & Traction and United Light & Traction closed up 1 or more. American & Foreign Power warrants closed more than 3 up, and among the stocks that normally move widely, Northern States & gained 7. Oils were largely neglected.

$25,000,000 Austrian Government International Loan 1930 SINKING FUND 7% GOLD BONDS

Dated July 1, 1930

Interest Payable January 1 and July 1

Due July 1, 1937

BANK FOR INTERNATIONAL SETTLEMENTS, TRUSTEE

A cumulative sinking fund computed to be sufficient to retire the entire amount of the Bonds of the American Tranche at or before maturity is to be applied to the purchase of Bonds at or below 103%, and accrued interest if obtainable, or otherwise to the redemption of Bonds drawn by lot.

Redeemable at 103% and accrued interest, upon not less than 60 days' published notice, as follows: For the sinking fund, on January 1, 1932, and yearly thereafter; At the option of the Government, as a whole on July 1, 1935, or on any interest payment date thereafter.

Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100.

Principal and interest payable in New York at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., in United States gold coin of the standard of weight and fineness existing on July 1, 1930, without deduction for any Austrian taxes, present or future.

Dr. Otto Juch, Federal Minister of Finance of the Republic of Austria, has furnished us with the following statement regarding the Austrian Government International Loan 1930:

THE LOAN The Bonds of the Austrian Government International Loan 1930 now to be issued are to provide an effective sum equivalent to over $55,000,000 and form part of an International Loan limited to an amount sufficient to yield in the aggregate an effective sum of 725,000,000 schillings (equivalent to about $102,000,000) and issuable in the form of Bonds of various currencies all of equal rank. Concurrently with the present issuance of the American tranche in the United States of America, other tranches are being issued in the following-named countries in the following principal amounts: Great Britain, £3,000,000 sterling; Holland, 5,000,000 guilder; Sweden, 10,000,000 kronor; Switzerland, 25,000,000 Swiss francs; Italy, 100,000,000 lire; Austria, 50,000,000 schillings.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE The Bonds of this Loan, which has been approved by the Committee of Control constituted in 1923, are issued to provide for capital expenditures incurred and to be incurred for improvements upon the Austrian Railways and the properties of the Postal and Telegraph administration. The investment program contemplated expenditures from 1928 to 1932 inclusive, aggregating the equivalent of approximately $102,000,000, of which about 55% will be provided by the net proceeds of the Bonds of this Loan being issued presently.

SECURITY The Bonds of this Loan are the direct and unconditional obligations of the Austrian Government and are secured by a charge upon the gross receipts of the Customs and of the Tobacco Monopoly of Austria, subject only to the charges in favor of the Austrian Government Conversion Loan 1923-1943, herein referred to as the 1923 Loan, and the Austrian Government Czechoslovakian Conversion Loan II. No further charge on the above-mentioned revenues may be created ranking in priority to or equally with the charges of this Loan except that the Austrian Government reserves the right to secure ratably with the Bonds of this Loan the bonds of any future loan issued to provide for redemption prior to maturity of the bonds of any portion of the 1923 Loan outstanding at the time of such redemption.

The gross receipts of the Customs and of the Tobacco Monopoly for the year 1929 were approximately 600,000,000 Austrian schillings (or about $84,400,000). The charges for interest and sinking fund on the 1923 Loan and the above-mentioned Czechoslovakian loan, together with the charge for interest and sinking fund on the total authorized amount of the Austrian Government International Loan 1930, computed for the entire authorized Loan on the same basis as the present issues and at par of exchange, is estimated not to exceed approximately 177,100,000 Austrian schillings (or about $24,900,000) per annum.

The pledged revenues are paid by the Austrian Government, as and when collected, directly into an account under the control of the trustees of the 1923 Loan, who, after providing each month for the service of that loan and the Czechoslovakian loan in accordance with their terms, are to release the balance to the Trustee for this Loan, which, after reserving each month one-twelfth of the amount required for the current annual service of this Loan, will release the balance to the Austrian Government.

An agreement has been made between Austria and the Powers concerned, subject in the case of France to ratification by the legislature, by which the amounts payable in respect of Relief Bonds have been funded for gradual payment over a period of forty years from 1929 to 1968. The charge upon the assets and revenues of Austria by which the Relief Bonds are secured has been subordinated to the charge in favor of the present Loan. By an agreement entered into at The Hague, dated January 20, 1930, between Austria and all the European Creditor Powers, Japan and other signatories, the financial obligations of Austria towards these Powers arising under the Armistice of November 3, 1918, and the Treaty of St. Germain, and any treaties or agreements supplemental thereto, were finally discharged and the first charge in favor of these Powers on all the assets and revenues of Austria created by the Treaty of St. Germain has ceased to be operative.

For further particulars, reference is made to the more detailed statement printed in the circular, a copy of which may be obtained upon application.

THE ABOVE BONDS ARE OFFERED FOR SUBSCRIPTION, SUBJECT TO THE CONDITIONS STATED BELOW, AT 95% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD OVER 7.40% TO MATURITY.

Subscription books will be opened at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., at 10 o'clock A. M., Tuesday, July 15, 1930, and closed in their discretion. The right is reserved to reject any and all applications, and also, in any case, to allot a smaller amount than applied for. All subscriptions will be received subject to the foregoing and to the due issue and delivery to us of the Bonds as planned and to the approval by counsel of the form and validity of the Bonds and of the relevant proceedings and authorizations.

The amounts due on allotments will be payable at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., in New York funds to their order, and the date of payment (on or about July 28, 1930) will be stated in the notices of allotment. Interim Certificates, exchangeable for definitive Bonds when received, are to be delivered.

Crackers, Barons Contest Third Place in Series Starting Today

ATLANTA PASSES IN REVIEW BEFORE BOBBY

And now... The tumult and the shouting die—and Robert T. Jones, Jr., hangs up his war clubs and becomes a young lawyer who lives in a pretty house set back in a pine grove and who goes to and from his office downtown and goes about evenings in the young married set and talks about children and bridge and the weather and perhaps the neighbors.

The champion golfer of the world will take a rest from the game at which he is the master. A long rest. Bobby Jones will not play golf until next Saturday. Five long days without a golf club in his hand.

Then he will resume his irregular foursomes at East Lake with Chick Ridley and Tess Bradshaw and Bob Gardner and Big Bob. He might play over the new 18-hole layout that was opened in his absence.

He will take a real vacation at Highlands, N. C., with his family. Casual golf will be part of the program there.

MERION NEXT.

Somewhere down the weeks he will begin to think about Merion Cricket Club and the national amateur championship, the fourth objective that circumstances and opportunity have wished upon him and the burden of which he graciously accepts.

He will step out after his fourth major championship in a year September 22—but today is no time to talk of the amateur with his great, glorious battle at Interlachen still rumbling like distant summer thunder.

THE TWO RECEPTIONS.

Riding in an automobile up Broadway in New York in that welcoming parade in Bobby Jones' honor July 2, one was struck with the heavy setting, the showers of confetti from tremendous heights and the magnitude of the machinery that had set it in motion. There was a spontaneity in the cheering of the crowds, but it otherwise was as formal as the processional that opens parliament.

But one who rode down Peachtree in an automobile yesterday with what appeared to be half of Atlanta's 350,000 people on the sidewalks and in office buildings, the wholesomeness of the reception was obvious.

While official New York welcomed Bobby Jones, everybody and his brother Elk figuratively clapped him on the back here. Policemen, firemen, military units, luncheon clubs, the power company, Georgia Tech alumni, the American Legion and kindred organizations, golf clubs were represented by delegations that walked or rode through the heat and yelled in genuine enthusiasm.

The delegations of negro caddies from the various clubs struck a new note. Nowhere save in Atlanta could those sections of the parade have been duplicated. The banners they carried and the rampant delight they had in keeping step with the colored Elks' band was spirit bubbling happily over.

And that ancient equipage manned by Al Dandridge and other A. A. C. locker room boys was a knockout.

There was no comedy in the New York parade; and a parade without a laugh is just a procession.

In years to come Bobby Jones may have just a dim recollection of his other receptions here and elsewhere but the party Atlanta pitched for him was the grandest, finest gesture a city ever gave to its favorite son.

THEY CHEERED THE MAN, NOT HIS DEEDS.

And why were they staging the pageant of happiness for Bobby Jones?

Certainly not because he had won three golf championships. He has won championships before.

And his winning three more was remarkable but the feat added little or nothing to the comfort, the riches or the enlightenment of humanity. Aside from proving that there really are no arbitrary limitations to what human skill can accomplish, the winning of three championships proved not a thing.

It was the man himself after all they were welcoming, of whom they were proud.

Bobby Jones stands for the American ideal in sportsmanship, in courtesy and in manliness. Winning those championships brought out those qualities more clearly.

Because he stands for the highest in golfing skill and lives in perfect harmony with his play on the links Atlanta and the nation feels like throwing its hat in the air whenever it has the slightest excuse. The three championships formed the excuse this time.

HIS RESPONSIBILITIES.

Being a national celebrity entails no end of worry. Bobby Jones' privacy ceases to exist when he leaves Atlanta. He is hounded by photographers, harried by autograph seekers, and crowded by handshakers.

Other national heroes know what it means. And until one has been around with Bobby Jones, one never can imagine the constant series of interruptions he has to endure.

That is why—one reason why—he is glad to get back home. Atlanta lets him go about his business of being a citizen except on such special occasions as this.

HE NEVER FAILS.

I saw one example of his unflinching courtesy that I never shall forget. Bobby was sitting in a compartment on his special car rolling down the C. & E. I. talking with a few friends.

"Whew, I sure am glad just to sit down and talk quietly for a few minutes," he said.

Almost immediately the door opened. A stranger stepped boldly into the room. He had not knocked. It was a sort of defiant entrance.

"I want to see Bobby Jones," the man demanded.

"I am he," Bob said, smiling.

"Well, I just wanted to say I had seen you," the man replied.

CRACKERS TRY CONCLUSIONS WITH BARONS

Third Place at Stake in Five-Game Series Here.

By Ralph McGill.

With third place at the home of contention, the Atlanta Crackers and the Birmingham Barons will begin growingling around at Spiller field this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Barons have been charging forward at a fast pace here of late but so have the Crackers, much to the surprise of all. They have advanced to within a couple of games of the Barons and if they can take three of the five games scheduled here they will move into third place.

In fact Squire Johnny Dobbs thinks that second place is not too far for his club to advance. He has his sights set for that position. And nothing would please him more than to kick his old club, the Barons, right in the heel of the pants about three, four or five times this week.

For a couple of months now the Crackers have been fooling around fourth place. They used Mobile as a springboard from which to leap from the gutter to the pavement and since that time have been keeping out of the gutter. They have tattered around on the edge now and then much like Leon Errol on his bum knee, but they haven't been down in the mud of seventh place as yet.

SOURNESS OUT.

The new heat records seemed to have steamed a lot of the sourness out of the Crackers. Pitching arms that were tight as a drum head suddenly began to loosen up and make that baseball misbehave.

Si Rosenthal accelerated his hitting pace and to behold if Roy Carlyle, hired as a siege gun and acting like a popgun, suddenly began to be a siege gun. The Crackers were just on the verge of sorrowfully parting with Roy Carlyle when he began to hammer that baseball as the fashion which he made famous.

SAM SPEEDS.

Sam Langford speeded up at the platter and the infield followed the pace set by the outfielder.

Luke Appling, the apple of your eye and mine, keeps shaving off the errors from his play and is beating a tattoo on the baseball.

Jack Sheehan, the best second baseman in the league, continues to be that, handling more than 100 chances without an error.

At first base Mule Slicker continues to field well and improve in hitting.

AND BOSCOE.

And Bob Lamotte, Boscoe Lamotte, who eats 'em alive at third base, continues to be the best third-sacker in the circuit.

Squire John Dobbs, who traded Ed Brown for Si Rosenthal and Johnny Jones for Bob Lamotte and looks as one of the best traders. He certainly did a slick lot of trading, did John Dobbs, and he stood by his trades when they didn't look so good. A lot of folks who knew he was wrong haven't taken the trouble to tell him he was right. But he is—and was.

Red Baron may get back in the game today. He was injured rather severely at Chattanooga some weeks ago and has been troubled with faulty vision. There is no reason to hurry him back in. He may get in today, but Dobbs will probably not disturb a winning combination as yet. The boys have won five straight.

If the Crackers can break the back of the Barons and they can if they will, they may yet be a factor in the five-club race for second place.

ST. LOUIS, July 14.—(AP)—Goose Goslin, St. Louis Browns' hitting ace and star outfielder, will be missing from the lineup for several days at least as result of an attack of appendicitis which sent him to a hospital today. Dr. Robert F. Hyland, club surgeon, said Goslin was in no immediate danger and an operation probably would not be necessary.

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 14.—(AP)—The opening matches in the Longwood bowl tennis tournament were put over until tomorrow as a result of today's heavy downpour.

Tournament officials said that an effort would be made to clean up the first and second rounds of play the same day.

The End of the Trail at Interlachen

Bobby Jones came through under pressure Saturday at Interlachen Country Club to shoot a birdie on the last hole and win the National open championship to add to the British amateur and open titles already won. It required a 40-foot putt to get that birdie. Bobby is shown above following through and just getting ready to raise his head and follow the course of the ball. The gallery, a small section of which is shown, completely surrounded the green.

HERMAN, O'DOUL TIED IN BIG SIX

Robin Slugger Blasts His Way to Second Place Knot.

Babe Herman, the hard hitting Brooklyn outfielder, took advantage of the lull in the National League yesterday to move into a tie for second place with Chuck Klein in baseball's big six. Both Klein and O'Doul, the leader, were idle while Herman pounded out two hits in five times at bat to take one point on his batting percentage. That one point gave him an average of .396.

The American League half of the sextet were in action but Simmons and Ruth lost ground while Rice failed to move up or down. Simmons got one hit against St. Louis pitching and lost four points, falling to .287, while the Babe got one hit in a double header at Chicago, dropping from .374 to .367.

Rice's two safeties in five times at bat left his .378 average intact.

Outboards To Race At Put-in-Bay Today

PUT-IN-BAY, Ohio, July 14.—(AP)—The angry roar of racing outboard motors tomorrow morning in Lake Erie here will be the start-off for four days of racing events of the thirty-seventh regatta of the Inter-lake Yachting Association.

Today Great Lakes pleasure craft skippers who had arrived, paused amid the festivities to dedicate a memorial to the commodore who has piloted the association since it was organized in 1865 and reorganized in 1924.

After the outboards have shown tomorrow, the graceful sailing yachts, sloops and catboats will come into afternoon activity for their type of events, probably the most picturesque part of the regatta.

Motorboat fanciers will lose no time, however, in joining the celebration. Races for nine various groups of motor cruisers and open-type speedboats also will begin tomorrow afternoon.

Sailing events will continue Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

RICHARD SEEKS RETURN MATCH

Daviscourt Anxious To Face Londos Again. Weber Works.

Dick Daviscourt, Rough Richard himself, is seeking another match with Jim Londos, who defeated him here a week ago with a Japanese toe hold.

"I'll bet my part of the purse or donate it to charity if Jim Londos gets that hold on me again," he said in a long distance telephone call Monday morning.

"He never would have got it before had the referee not ordered us to break in the ropes," said Daviscourt. "I relaxed and then Londos grabbed that hold."

"I want to meet him again and I'll contribute my end of the purse to charity if he gets that hold again, but I'll demand a referee from Chicago or New York."

Matchmaker Henry Weber is trying to reach Londos and get his name on the agreement for a return match at Spiller field.

"I'll bring in a referee from the New York or Chicago commission," said Weber. "I want this match because so many people have told me they did not believe Daviscourt got a good break in the match."

If the champion does return for another try at Londos' title Spiller field will be packed. The match last week was one of the finest ever seen here. Daviscourt, erstwhile villain, remained the favorite throughout the match. The majority was for him.

Weber declines to say if he lands the match he will put on another strong semi-windup.

Matchmaker Weber was unable to line up a good card for tonight because of an insufficient time in which to seek the wrestlers. "I did not care to put on an inferior match," he said, "and so have called off the one announced for this week."

GOLFDOM'S KING IS WELCOMED BY WHOLE CITY

All Receptions in City's History Surpassed as Bob Returns.

By Ralph McGill.

Far down the street there was a stir. Mounted police moved into line, their mounts prancing. Out ahead of them moved motorcycle men. Behind them khaki figures moved into view.

There was a hush for a moment. Despite the heat, when one looked south down Peachtree street, it appeared as if a snowplow had gone through leaving walls of white packed back against the buildings. They were spotted here and there with color.

The motorcycle men moved out with stuttering engines.

A brown khaki arm was lifted and felt. There came the roll of a drum and a band swung into action. Around the curve men began to march.

Rifles glinted in the sun. Sabers flashed.

On the porch of the Capital City Club a young man and his wife stepped up on a platform on the porch that lifted them above the crowd. Behind him stepped a club man, who looked happy and young. Two children peered over the rail.

ATLANTA'S TRIBUTE.

Bob Jones had come home and was standing in the reviewer's place with his family.

The band was blaring close—Atlanta's mighty tribute to the man who had beaten odds of 50 to 1 to win the admiration of the world was on. Fifty to one he could not win the British amateur, the British and national open—and he did.

Bob Jones' face was a bit white under the tan. There was a set look about his face, as if he were about to battle for his emotions just then.

MEN, GUNS, SABERS.

There is something about coming home, something about marching men in columns, something about a clash of sabers and the glint of rifles in the sun that does that to a man. The 122d infantry was moving by, saluting the world's greatest golfer.

Big Bob Jones turned and looked at his son. There are many proud fathers in this world, but there was a look on Big Bob's face as he turned for a moment to look at his son which few fathers are privileged to wear. And his eyes seemed to be stinging.

He blinked them a moment. Cars passed carrying military officers of the reserve corps. Then more brimmers in the air, the banging of drums and the drum and bugle corps moved.

OLD ARMY SONG.

A baton waved and the big trumpets were lifted to lips and that old rascal army tune rang out:

"You're in the army now, You're not behind the plow—"

BOB JONES.

Sirens wailed and increased as the red fire trucks moved up to the reviewing stand. Behind them marched 100 firemen, their uniforms clean and blue, white gloves giving them an added dignity.

JAYCEES IN LINE.

More cars and then fifty young men in knickerbockers with a huge sign honoring Bob Jones. The Junior Chamber of Commerce band was passing, swinging golf sticks.

By this time it was snowing along Peachtree street. Down the long, ransacked street, the plow seemed to have pushed back walls of white in steaming July weather.

Wee Scotch Bob Approves Class Of Atlanta's Bob

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP) Bobby Jones' professional Scotch golfing was on a playoff at Inwood in 1923 to win his first open championship, won $10,500 through the Atlanta wizard's victories in three straight major tournaments this year.

Cruikshank, who failed to qualify for the tournament Bobby won at Interlachen Saturday, parlayed $50 last April on Jones to win the British amateur crown, the British open and the United States open. Bobby's triple triumph brought Cruikshank $210 for each $1 of his own investment.

"I saw Bobby in the Savannah open, knew the shape he was in, and made the best bet of my life," Cruikshank said today at his club at Purchase, N. Y. "I let my father-in-law have half of the bet but that's all right, it's all in the family."

"After I played with Bobby at Atlanta this spring I knew he could win everything he tackled this year," Cruikshank said. "He was in grand shape and there's no golfer like him when he's right."

The tiny Scot had a chuckle or two at the thought of the position he might have been in if he had been in Mac Smith's shoes at Interlachen. "I bet he would have liked to have been within a shot or two of Jones in that final 18 holes."

"The bet wouldn't have mattered. I'd rather have won the United States open than a $25,000 bet," he said. "I couldn't have done a thing about it anyway."

The municipal stadium will be lighted with 135,000 wps.

The entire Charlotte series will be played at night. One of the games of the regular Saturday doubleheader will be played in the afternoon and the other at night.

Judge W. G. Bramham, president of the league, club owners and sports writers from every town in the league will attend the first game.

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE No. 2

Erich von Harben, at the age of twenty-three, had achieved distinction in Europe as an Alpine mountain-climber, as an archaeologist and as a student of dead languages. His father maintained a mission in Africa, and there his son visited him. Immediately the young student became interested in the study of various Bantu dialects.

The old men of the native tribes told him the legend of the Lost Tribe of the Wiramwasi Mountains and young von Harben became imbued with the idea that this tribe might be one of the lost tribes of Biblical history. The reports had it that somewhere in the depths of the great mountain-range was a mysterious tribe of white men.

Young von Harben organized an expedition to penetrate beyond the Wiramwasi in quest of the lost tribe. But his expedition had not been one so much enough to accomplish its mission when a frightened member of his party returned to his village. He told strange tales of malign spirits, for the lost tribesmen were supposed to be blood-thirsty ghosts.

Dr. von Harben tried to organize a relief expedition but he soon discovered other deserters from his son's party had spread terror throughout the land. The natives shuddered at the name of the Wiramwasi Mountains and their fear gradually infected the Doctor himself. In desperation he set out to find the only man to aid him, Tarzan of the Apes.

A TEMPTING MENU . . . FOR SEAGOING EPICURES

The Savannah Line caters to the sophisticated traveler whose comfort is precious to him—or her, especially her.

Staterooms, service, everything, is calculated to please people who are accustomed to "doing themselves well."

We are particularly proud of the menus which our chefs prepare for appetites sharpened by that finest sauce in the world—fresh, salt sea air. For example, here is a carte du jour we take at random from the chief steward's desk:

Dinner
STUFFED OLIVES	CHERRYSTONE CLAM COCKTAIL
CONDOMINE SAVANNAH	CELERY
BAKED BLUE FISH	MATRE D'HOTEL
POTATOES RITZ	OKRA
STRAWBERRY SHERBERT
SPAGHETTI ITALIENNE
ROAST LOBSTER DUCKLING
